GERMANS VICTORIOUS OVER ALL 3 ENEMIES

SLATON LOSES FIRST FIGHT

Hon. W. F. Jenkins was overwhelmingly elected temporary chairman, and St. Elmo Massengale was unanimously chosen secretary. The election of Judge E. J. Reagan as permanent chairman is a certainty in view of the big victory won by the progressives in the election of Mr. Jenkins.

JENKINS WINNER OVER J. R. POTTLE

BY ROGERS WINTER.
(Staff Correspondent.)

CONVENTION HALL, Macon, Ga., Sept. 1.—Amid scenes of wildest enthusiasm, Hon. W. F. Jenkins, of Eatonton, was elected temporary chairman of the Georgia Democratic convention here this morning by the vote of 246 to 126. Mr. Jenkins, who was the choice of Messrs. Hardwick, Felder, Harris and Hardman, was opposed by Judge Robert Pottle, of Albany, advanced by the forces of Gov. Slaton.

In accepting the temporary chairmanship, Mr. Jenkins paid high compliment to President Woodrow Wilson, Senator Hoke Smith, and to Judge Nat E. Harris, the successful candidate for governor.

The convention unanimously selected St. Elmo Massengale, of Atlanta, as secretary, and D. F. McClatchey, of Cobb county, as assistant secretary. Joseph S. Davis, United States marshal for the southern district of Georgia, was appointed sergeant-at-arms, and following the appointment of credentials and rules committees adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock.

The opening of the convention was marked by stormy demonstrations for Senator Hoke Smith and for the candidates for temporary chairmanship. The nomination of Mr. Jenkins was made by Dupont Guerry and was seconded by J. E. Shephard and by Joseph E. Pottle, brother of the opposing candidate.

The nomination of Judge Pottle by H. H. Dean, of Gainesville, was not seconded.

Before the voting began, G. R. Hutcheng gained the floor, amid pandemonium for a statement in which he persisted, amid loudly voiced disapproval, in criticising Senator Hoke Smith, the mention of whose name was signal for a thunderous ovation.

AUDITORIUM IS THRONGED.

The movement from the hotels to the city auditorium started by 9 o'clock, an hour before the time for calling the convention to order. It was led by the bands and drum corps of the candidates and was a solid caravan of automobiles, hacks and pedestrians.

None but the delegates, alternates, newspaper men and the few others entitled to the floor were admitted downstairs, and these were required to present their admission cards at the entrances. Congressional districts were grouped together, each with a placard on a tall post showing its number.

The districts were arranged in numerical order parallel with the front of stage. Beginning with the first district in front on the left of the chairman.

In a conspicuous place in the very center of the floor sat the Tenth district delegates, with the delegates from Washington county—where Congressman Hardwick lives—in their center. Hoisted high above them was a huge banner adorned with a hand painted game rooster of heroic proportions and the words "Washington county delegation."

The hall was lavishly decorated with American flags and bunting while lithographs of Governor Slaton adorned the balcony railing. High speed electric fans rimmed the walls, both upstairs and down, and hundreds of palmetto fans fluttered in the hands of perspiring delegates.

In the balcony, reserved for spectators every seat was taken, and a crowd clogged the aisles.

So great was the popular interest and the demand for seats that ladies crowded into the balcony, glad to get seats even between men without coats.

At eight minutes after 10 o'clock Senator W. S. West mounted the stage preparatory to calling the convention to order, after holding a private consultation with Albert Howell, of Atlanta; H. H. Dean, of Gainesville; Judge Rob-

BRAVERY OF CAPTAIN ON BURNING STEAMER SAVES MANY ABOARD

Hundreds of Women and Children Narrowly Escape Death When Steamer Catches Fire Near Chicago

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—The lives of three hundred passengers of the excursion boat City of Chicago, which caught fire about twelve miles out from this harbor in lake Michigan at 5 o'clock this morning were saved by the resourcefulness of Captain Oscar Bjork.

The wireless failing to work, Captain Bjork ordered the engines full speed ahead and 45 minutes later the big boat with carrying capacity of 2,600 passengers sank her bow into the government pier and was wedged fast. The stern sank a few feet owing to the water which had accumulated in the hold.

All through the ordeal the officers and crew stuck to their posts, although the stokers and engineers were choking with the smoke and flames bursting from the upper works.

To avoid panic, the passengers, nearly all of whom were asleep in their cabins, were not notified to come on deck until the pier was dimly visible.

"Women and children first," ordered Captain Bjork and the male passengers as well as the crew stood back.

Most of them were thrown from their feet when the boat struck the pier.

The plight of the ship had been seen from shore and seven tugs, two fire tugs and two excursion steamers were on the scene almost as soon as the City of Chicago struck.

Passengers descended to the pier, which forms a long breakwater at the entrance to the harbor and were later brought into the city on the rescuing craft.

The flames were subdued after a three hours' fight by the fire tugs and excursion boats.

FIVE PERSONS INJURED IN MICHIGAN WRECK

(By Associated Press.)

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 1.—Five persons were injured early today when several cars of the Northland Limited, a resort train on the Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad, went into a ditch near Kalamazoo. It was said by officials of the railroad that none of the five was fatally hurt.

The War Today

(By the Associated Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Today, on the eve of the anniversary of the capitulation of Sedan, 3,000,000 troops are battling on the French frontier—the Germans in a headlong effort to celebrate the day with a dramatic success; the French, backed by their British allies, to avenge their defeat of forty-four years ago.

The heaviest fighting appears to be taking place along a line from Peronne, in the department of Somme, to Vervins, in the department of Aisne. There the flower of Emperor William's army is trying to pierce the British defense.

Further to the east the forces of the German crown prince still are attacking the French in the section about Mezieres, the capital of the department of Ardennes.

The only points where the French claim to have gained positive successes are in the Vosges mountains and in Lorraine, where the Germans are said to be in retreat.

The latest official report on the situation north of Paris was issued last night. It said that the French left, owing to the progress of the German right wing, had been forced to "mark a new retirement." Explaining this announcement, the French embassy in London today said:

"The Anglo-French army corps have had to give ground, but nowhere have they been broken through."

The fighting today in which the allies are believed to be opposing the German advance, it is thought to be centered around La Fere, a strongly fortified French position on the River Oise, seventy-five miles northeast of Paris. The fate of the French capital may hang on the outcome of these operations.

It is not definitely known whether the British troops in France have been engaged again or not.

A news dispatch from Diophe says a great battle has been fought at Crolsilles and probably is still in progress. No details are given nor has this report been received from any other source. Crolsilles is ten miles southeast of Arras, in the department of Pas de Calais and is about fifteen miles from Cambrai.

A Frenchman who reached the capital today says there are no Germans in Lille, Roubaix or Tourcoing, a group of towns near the Belgian frontier which were occupied by the Germans last week.

Today is the anniversary of the battle of Sedan, which was fought with disastrous results to the French in 1870. This coincident draws particular attention to the outcome of the present operations, concerning which such impenetrable silence is being maintained in London, Paris and Berlin. Rome has received a report from Roumania that the Russians have inflicted a crushing defeat on the Austrians in Galicia, the troops of Emperor Francis Joseph suffering losses declared to amount to 20,000. A news dispatch from St. Petersburg makes a similar claim, saying the Austrians in Poland have lost tens of thousands of men.

Nevertheless, reports from the eastern theater of war continue to be conflicting. Both St. Petersburg and Berlin claim important victories.

By imperial order the city of St. Petersburg will henceforth be known as Petrograd, the change eliminating the Teuton construction in the name of the chief city of Russia.

An official communication given out at Antwerp says the situation throughout Belgium is satisfactory. The Germans are declared to have evacuated Aerchot and railroad communication has been restored in the Campine country.

Refugees from Brussels say food there is getting scarce and declare the German garrison today numbers not more than 10,000. German sentinels are posted at all the public buildings.

Queen Elizabeth of Belgium and her children, who arrived in London last night, are today the guests of Lord Curzon.

A news dispatch from The Hague says the four richest men in Belgium have guaranteed the payment to Germany of the war tax of $40,000,000 levied against the Belgian capital.

News dispatches published in London say that the people of Berlin are alarmed at the Russian advance, are beginning to leave the capital for neutral countries.

The prince of Wales relief fund is approaching the $10,000,000 mark. W. W. Astor has contributed $125,000.

OFFICIAL REPORT SAYS 70,000 ARE TAKEN PRISONERS

Three Russian Army Corps Annihilated; Two Generals, Three Hundred Officers, Complete Artillery Captured

(By Associated Press.)

GERMANS CAPTURE 70,000 RUSSIANS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—A German victory at Allenstein in which three Russian army corps were defeated and 70,000 prisoners, including two Russian commanding generals, were taken was reported today to the German embassy from Berlin by wireless via Sayville, L. I.

The dispatch says:

"Official report of the victory at Allenstein shows that it was even greater than known before. Three Russian army corps were annihilated. Seventy thousand prisoners were taken, including two commanding generals, three hundred officers and the complete artillery of the Russian army."

ENGLISH CAPTURED.

"In the west, General Von Kluk, it is reported, against the French flanking attempt advanced to Conbles" (here part of the message could not be clearly deciphered.) "General Von Buelow completely defeated a superior French force near St. Quentin after having captured the English infantry. A battalion under General Von Hausen forced back the French upon the river at Rethel.

"The Duke of Wuertemburg crossed the Meuse river, also advancing upon Aisine. The crown prince advanced beyond the Meuse after capturing the entire garrison of Montnedy, which tried to sortie. The fortress also was captured. The crown prince of Bavaria and General Von Heeringen have been in continuous battle in French Lorraine.

CELEBRATION OF SEDAN DAY.

"Today, Sedan day will be celebrated here with jubilation because of the victorious news which arrived from the east and west last night. The Russian defeat at Ortelsburg recalls Sedan by the huge number of prisoners taken.

"The Brazilian military attache at Berlin writes that the German victory did not come as a surprise to those who witnessed their maneuvers in peace, and declares that the effect of the Krupps heavy artillery is astonishing.

TURKEY TO JOIN GERMANY.

ROME, Sept. 1.—A telegram received from Berlin announces the mobilization of the Turkish army.

Following the advice of Field Marshal Baron Von Der Glotz, it is stated the Turkish government will form an army of the first line composed of 200,000 men, all Mohammedans.

Seventy-two superior German officers, forming the German military mission at Constantinople, have been incorporated in the Turkish army and will participate in the war.

The presence of the German officers in the army is interpreted to mean that Turkey will fight at the side of Germany.

The sultan's real reason for going to war at this time is veiled, but authorities believe the sultan sees a chance to gain back his lost territory, especially the islands in the Aegean sea which Greece now controls. Turkey also feels a grievance toward England for taking over the two new battleships being built for the Ottomans in English yards at the time of the outbreak of the present war.

TURKEY ABOUT TO DECLARE WAR.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The British embassy has been informed by a cable from London that German officers had gone to Constantinople to take charge of the Turkish army, and that a declaration of war from Turkey was expected. Plans are already under way to ask the American ambassador at Constantinople to take charge of British interests there.

TURKISH ENVOY DENIES IT.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The Turkish ambassador, A. Rustem Bey, expressed doubt today that the Turkish army was mobilizing and about to fight on the side of Germany. He said the Turkish army was mobilized three weeks ago.

FRANCE CALLS OUT LAST RESERVES.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—Official announcement was made this afternoon to the effect that the minister of war has decided to call out immediately all the reservists in the country who have not been previously summoned to the colors.

FOUR WEALTHY BELGIANS GO ON BELGIUM'S BOND

Guarantee Payment of Tax Demanded by Germans and Avert Ruin of Brussels

LONDON, Sept. 1.—A dispatch from The Hague says the four richest men in Belgium have guaranteed the payment to Germany of the war tax the Germans levied against Belgium. The four men are Ernest Solvay, the alkali king; Baron Lambert, the Belgian representative of the Rothschilds; Raoul Warocque, the mine owner, and Baron Empain, the railway magnate.

"Had not this guarantee been given," says the correspondent, "Brussels would probably have been treated as Louvain was. Big guns were mounted in front of the palace ready for bombardment."

TO REGAIN HEALTH CLEANSE THE BLOOD

When your blood is impure, weak, thin and debilitated, you cannot possibly enjoy good health. Your system becomes receptive of any or all diseases, and germs are likely to lodge in some part of the body.

Put your blood in good condition, and do so at once.

BELGIAN OFFICER LIVES DESPITE EFFORT TO DIE

Heroic Commander at Liege Blew Up Fort Rather Than Surrender; Was Only Survivor, and When Taken Prisoner Was Given Sword

PARIS, Sept. 1.—The Antwerp correspondent of the Petit Parisien gives this explanation of the presence of General Leman, the Belgian commander at Liege, in Magdeburg as a prisoner of war:

On August 17 General Leman was summoned by the Germans to surrender the Liege forts. He refused but as it was impossible to hold out against another bombardment, he called his officers together in Fort Loncin and told them it was foolish to try further.

"'I have decided to die here. Loncin shall be my tomb,' he said.

"All the officers declared they would die with their general. Again the cannon thundered and then these in the fort were silenced after which a terrible explosion took place. General Leman and his officers had blown up the fort. Of all in the fort General Leman alone survived and from the debris he was taken a prisoner to Magdeburg. On Emperor William's order he was allowed to keep his sword."

ONLY RICH CAN EAT EGGS AND BUTTER IN BRUSSELS

One Suburb Required to Furnish German Officers 400 Bottles of Wine Daily

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 1.—A Belgian business man who has just arrived in London said that food was already very scarce in Brussels.

"Only about one person in a hundred can afford eggs and milk," he said. "People who are rich enough to have milk twice weekly are considered very lucky. The Germans have directed the suburb St. Gilles to supply to the military 400 bottles of wine daily. Brussels proper has to contribute daily 70,000 pounds of bread while the suburb of Auderghem supplies 40,000 pounds of meat."

OIL PRODUCERS WILL ISSUE OIL WARRANT

(By Associated Press.)

PITTSBURG, Sept. 1.—Relief for crude oil products was forecast today in the announcement of the National Transit company that it would issue negotiable oil warrants, in 100, 500 and 1,000 barrel denominations. It was expected these warrants would be accepted by banks, and thus enable producers to realize on crude oil they have been unable to move because of the European war. The system is a return to the plan in operation many years ago, when speculation was a feature of the oil market.

ITALIAN SHIP BRINGS RICH AMERICANS HOME

Trip From Genoa on This Vessel Cost So Much Ordinary Folk Couldn't Ride

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The Italian steamer Principessa Mafalda chartered by John E. Jones, American consul at Genoa, at a cost of $184,000, reached New York today with 388 wealthy Americans aboard. Some of them paid $7,000 for a cabin; none paid less than $100 and the average cost was $500.

The presence of empty cabins that would have accommodated 200 persons was explained by the declaration that although there were many Americans in Italy who wanted to return home, they were unwilling to pay the fares demanded.

Reaching port at almost the same hour as the Principessa Mafalda was the Holland-American liner Ryndam with 1,285 passengers. The Ryndam's accommodations were choked with refugees. Scores of them were "practically without funds and twenty-seven were absolutely destitute.

An option on the Principessa Mafalda was obtained in the name of the United States government by Mr. Jones at Genoa. When the option expired Mr. Jones had not received authority from the state department at Washington to pledge payment for the ship's passage by the government, and a party of Americans guaranteed the $184,000 demanded.

The vessel's owners refitted the ship to suit the passengers. What had been the steerage was remodeled with cabins. The liner sailed from Genoa August 21. Except at Gibraltar no warships were sighted. When the vessel was two days out two Italian boys were found aboard. The stowaways said they had left home to escape service in the army.

The Ryndam's passengers told the usual tale of hardships in Europe and aboard ship after sailing. Many slept at night on the decks.

Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, widow of the former president, was one of the Ryndam's passengers.

American Liner Arrives Flying the British Flag

(By Associated Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—The American liner Merion, flying the British flag, arrived here today from Liverpool with 208 cabin and 240 steerage passengers. The trip across was made without special incident.

STOVALL HAS TROUBLE FINDING AMERICANS

Minister in Switzerland Not Allowed to Use Telephone or Telegraph

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Minister Pleasant A. Stovall at Berne, Switzerland, is experiencing much difficulty in finding hundreds of Americans for whom inquiry has been made through the state department. The minister is not permitted to use the telephone or telegraph and when an inquiry is made for an American he must employ a messenger.

The minister's reports show, however, that Americans slowly are making their way to seaports.

BELGIANS TO TELL U. S. OF GERMAN ATROCITIES

Commission on Way to Washington Is Received by King of England

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The Belgian commission, on its way to the United States to protest against alleged German atrocities in the war zone, was received by King George in Buckingham palace today. The members of the commission were accompanied by Count de Lallaing, Belgian minister to Great Britain.

The commissioners arrived in London last night from Antwerp. They expect to leave for Washington in a few days.

GERMAN PEOPLE KIND TO AMERICAN TOURISTS

Mrs. Harrison, Wife of Former President, Tells of Aid Rendered

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The friendship of the German people for Americans is deep-seated and took concrete form in many acts of kindness during the early days of the great European conflict, according to Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, widow of the former president, who reached New York today on the steamer Ryndam, from Rotterdam. Mrs. Harrison and twenty-four other American refugees who were in Germany at the outbreak of hostilities, drew up a statement embodying their views before the Ryndam reached port.

"As Americans returning from Germany," the statement read, "we feel our duty as citizens of a friendly country to set forth the truth concerning our treatment in Germany.

"While the German people always treat the Americans with great courtesy and kindness in times of peace, this was especially emphasized in times of war. From the time of the declaration of war until the time of departure nothing but kind treatment was accorded us.

"This spirit was especially well shown, even in the midst of their great sorrow by a public meeting for Americans in the Rathaus in Berlin.

"Again the kindly spirit of the nation was shown by providing special trains, even though these trains were needed for the transfer of soldiers and munitions of war, to convey the Americans from various parts of Germany to ports where passage home could be secured.

"It is not possible to enumerate all the various kindness accorded to Americans. It is enough to say that it would not be possible for any nation to be kinder to a foreign people in times of war than was Germany."

SIR JAMES SIVEWRIGHT HELD PRISONER OF WAR

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Sir James Sivewright, who has been prominent in the administration of the Cape Colony, has been arrested by the Germans at Nuremberg, where he was taking the cure, and is now a prisoner of war. The high commissioner of the Union of South Africa in London has appealed to the American ambassador in Berlin to obtain Sir James' release.

TALKATIVE ARMY MAN MUST EXPLAIN REPORT

War Department Takes Notice of Alleged Criticism of German Operations

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Louis Livingstone Seaman, a first lieutenant of the United States army medical corps on the inactive list, has been called upon by the war department to explain whether he made adverse criticism of German army operations in Belgium as attributed to him in news dispatches.

Attention of officials was drawn to published reports in which Dr. Seaman, discussing the attack on Antwerp by the German Zeppelin, was represented as saying the Germans fell upon the city "like a hyena in the night, murdering helpless women and children." He is said to have cabled a report to Washington.

As Dr. Seaman is on the inactive list, he cannot be court-martialed for violation of President Wilson's order to army and navy officers to refrain from partisan discussion of the European struggle. Officials say his name may be dropped from the inactive list, however, should it be found he made the utterances attributed to him.

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

A Word of Introduction

If thirty years in the shoe business in Georgia has taught us one thing more than another, it is the universal demand for a boys' shoe that will give adequate service for a popular price.

A year ago, we began our plans to build a shoe that would 1st—Be popular with the boy.

2nd—Have a soft chrome upper.
3rd—Almost indestructible sole.
4th—Look fairly well after abuse.
5th—Be a repeater.

After severe tests we offer one that we think fills the bill.

Our "Real Boy" Shoe

Comes in black and brown.

Sold at these popular prices:
9 to 13, $2.00. 1 to 5, $2.50.

The reason of the value in this shoe is the special treatment of the sole leather, doubling its service.

To place them within easy reach of every boy in the vicinity of Atlanta, a full assortment will be found with the following responsible merchants:

BODY OF WOMAN FOUND IN SEWER STILL UNIDENTIFIED

Despite Work of City Detectives, Case Remains Deep Mystery

Investigators in the case of the murdered woman whose badly decomposed body was found in an arm of the sewer back of Piedmont park Saturday night were no closer Tuesday to establishing the identity of the corpse than they were when it was first discovered.

Identification of the corpse itself is impossible because of its condition, and there are no other means of identification except a shirtwaist, an undershirt and a bar pin. So badly is the body decomposed that physicians cannot say with certainty whether the woman was white or colored.

Even from the teeth, often one of the last final means of recognition of a body, nothing in this case can be told with certainty. For many of the teeth are missing, they either dropped out or were knocked out by a blow.

Detectives, however, are still bending their energies to solve the mystery. Every trail, no matter how dim, is being followed. A telegram from Chief Reynolds, of New Orleans police, received by Chief Beavers Monday evening, states that L. McGartlin, of New Orleans, believes, from a description of the body in The Atlanta Journal, that the dead woman may be his wife. The telegram says Mrs. McGartlin left New Orleans August 17. It does not state that she went to Atlanta.

Granting that she came to Atlanta, it is next to impossible that the body could be hers. Physicians who viewed the remains Monday came to the conclusion that the body had been dead two months or over, thus eliminating the possibility of its being Mrs. McGartlin, who has been absent from New Orleans only two weeks.

That the body was that of Miss Ollie Vera Macey was disproved as soon as investigations began Monday. Miss Macey was located at the Lyons hotel, in Decatur, Ala. From this hotel she recently wrote to Miss Helen Perry, a friend of hers, 92 Houston street, that "you will never see me again, or will anyone else. Tell Bob good-by for me, and tell mama good-by."

The funeral over the woman's body took place at noon at Harry G. Poole's undertaking establishment on South Pryor street. The box containing the body was sealed early Tuesday, and all morbidly curious persons, including many young women, were turned away with the information that they could not look at the remains. The interment was in the potter's field. The unsolved mystery probably went into the grave with the dead woman.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS OF ATLANTA'S GRAIN MARKET

The semi-monthly luncheon of the Rotary club was held Tuesday afternoon at the Winecoff, with President Albert S. Adams presiding. About 70 members were in attendance and the speech of the occasion was made by J. Leroy Duncan, on the subject of Atlanta as a grain and hay market center.

Mr. Duncan reviewed the remarkable growth of Atlanta as a wholesale business center during the past ten years or more, proving himself an experienced and capable speaker. Souvenirs were handed out by A. Beauchamp and Joel Hunter.

MRS. SENTELL CHARGES HUSBAND HAS TWO WIVES

Alleging that he had another wife when he married her, Mrs. Mattie C. Sentell filed a petition in the superior court Monday to have her marriage with L. Sentell annulled. Miss Lily Dodd, of East Point, is named as the other wife.

Sentell, once well known as the Frank case witness who created a sensation at the coroner's inquest by stating that he saw Mary Phagan on the street some time after the hour at which she was murdered was served in the Fulton county office of the sheriff. He was sent up by Recorder Broyles charged with bigamy. Attorney Frank Haralson filed the suit for Mrs. Sentell.

Mrs. J. M. McNair's Funeral

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CAMILLA, Ga., Sept. 1.—The funeral services of Mrs. J. M. McNair, who died at her home in this city Saturday morning, was held at the Baptist church in this city yesterday morning, being conducted by Rev. J. P. Chatfield, pastor of the Methodist church, Rev. O. P. Bentley, pastor of the Baptist church, and Rev. B. F. Davis. Interment was made at Oakview cemetery.

She is survived by her husband, Mr. John M. McNair, and six children, Misses Laura and Bessie McNair, of this city, Mrs. Floyd, of Birmingham, Mr. J. McNair, of Gadsden, Mr. Elmore McNair, of Tallahassee, and Mr. C. W. McNair, of the United States navy. Also one brother, Dr. Dan M. Spence, and two sisters, Miss Bettie Spence and Mrs. Charles E. Watt, Sr., all of this city.

Boy Hurt by Bicycle

Robert Bowen, a fifteen-year-old boy, of 578 Simpson street, while attempting to cross the street in front of 109 Peachtree, was knocked down by a negro riding a bicycle. Bowen was rushed to the hospital, where it was found he had sustained a broken left ankle. The negro escaped.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

PREDICTS GREAT GROWTH FOR SOUTHERN STATES

A. B. Conklin Declares Opportunity Is Now Knocking at the Door

A. B. Conklin, vice president and general manager of the Atlanta Telephone and Telegraph company, in an interview prepared by him for use this month in telephone publications, discusses business conditions in Atlanta and the south and predicts tremendous growth if the south will only rise to its opportunities. He says in part:

"Confidence coupled with reasonable action and supported by our natural resources are at this time the only essentials needed to place the southern states in the foremost ranks of our nation.

"The activity of money in critical times is a reliable barometer of business conditions. For many months our bank clearings have been showing increases over the same time last year, and the past thirty days have developed European conditions of such magnitude as to cause the whole world to gasp; yet our bank clearings and our postal receipts have continued to increase, since the first declaration of European war.

"The reason for these conditions is the assured protection of all sections of the country, all legitimate business or vocation, through our new currency laws, and the assurances of our national administration that there will use every reasonable means necessary to furnish relief to our present limemma, the financing of the cotton crop.

"The collateral value of this great resource, cotton, is unequalled by any other product. It can be safely stored for years at a nominal expense when other farm products require much greater cost to store for a few months, and many can only be carried a few weeks. The real commercial importance of this staple is even greater than gold as its use is practical and not theoretical.

"Let us remain steadfast to those convictions, continuing our activities, paying promptly our obligations and if credit is required, in legitimate channels, extending it on reasonable terms. These are the only essentials necessary to place us in the class of importance, which we so honestly merit."

"Moving Day" Is Here; Many Atlantians Are Entering New Homes

"Say, back that van up a little closer, can't you? I don't want to lug this piano all over the block. 'Look out! That old lady's going to raise a howl if she sees that scratch. Ouch! You've got the thing on my foot!

"There, that's all right. Drive carefully now, or you'll topple that china closet off the top and then there'll be the dickens to pay. Nineteen Blank street's the number. You can't miss it—yellow bungalow with green blinds."

If somebody wasn't saying that in your neighborhood Tuesday morning you're lucky. Tuesday is September 1 and "moving day" in Atlanta. And if one judged solely by the number of vans to be seen, all loaded down with furniture of every class and description, he would be inclined to believe that every family from Buckhead to College Park and from Battle Hill to Decatur is changing its domicile.

Reports from the transfer companies in the city are that more Atlantians are changing homes this year than ever before. Renting and real estate men confirm this. Some estimate that the increase this year over last is as great as 25 per cent. The moving began Saturday, they say, and will continue throughout the week, as it is impossible for the transfer companies to accommodate all the movers in one, two, or even three days.

NEW LUCKIE TEMPLE DEDICATED TONIGHT

Past Grand Master Jeffries Will Be in Charge of Exercises

Dedication exercises of the new temple of the Luckie lodge, No. 88, of Masons, at Lee and Gordon streets, will be held by the Masonic lodge of the state at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. Past Grand Master Thomas H. Jeffries, acting grand master, will be in charge.

After the formal dedicatory exercises there will be a number of informal addresses by prominent Atlanta Masons, among them Forrest Adair and Joseph C. Greenfield. Every Mason in Atlanta and the surrounding territory is invited to be present and it is expected that the attendance will be unusually large.

The new temple, which was opened with a public reception Friday night, is one of the handsomest in the country. It cost approximately $30,000 and was unanimously voted by the large crowd which attended its opening one of the most completely equipped and the handsomest ever seen anywhere.

SAYS SOUTHERN FARMERS CAN HANDLE COTTON CROP

Harry Schlesinger Believes It Can Be Financed Without Help From Outside

Georgia and the south as a whole is amply able to finance the cotton crop without any help whatever from the outside, according to H. L. Schlesinger, the well known candy manufacturer.

To do this, he explains, every business interest in the state must co-operate as they have never before done. And this co-operation if forced by existing conditions at this time, will turn the present situation into the greatest boon the state at large and especially the farmers have ever known, he believes.

"There are thousands of men in Georgia," he said, "who are amply able to hold their cotton almost indefinitely. There are also thousands of others who have no cotton who are able to assist the man who has to hold his until a fair price can be demanded. And with these two classes working together, letting the world know that cotton cannot be bought for less than it costs to make it, it will be only a short time until the man who is forced to sell can get a living price for it."

Mr. Schlesinger states he has two plantations on which considerable cotton is raised. From neither of these, however, will he allow a bale of cotton to be offered for sale, no matter what the price may be, until the present crisis is past. He will have the cotton held not only because he is not willing to sell it for less than it costs to make, he explains, but because by holding it he will be protecting the small farmer who cannot afford to hold indefinitely.

LEAF WORM THREATENS NORTH GEORGIA COTTON

Warning Sounded to Farmers to Be on Lookout for Pest

Announcement was made from the office of State Entomologist Worsham Tuesday morning that the leaf worm or caterpillar had appeared in a number of the north Georgia counties, its presence greatly endangering young cotton.

According to the department, this same pest made its debut in some of the southern counties about two or three weeks ago, but owing to the advanced growth of the crop there was too late to do any material damage. Such, however, is not the case in the new infected area where the cotton is less matured, and Mr. Worsham sounds a note of warning to the farmers in that section. He is anxious that all planters adjacent to the infected district watch for the invasion of the pest and use every means to prevent its spread.

In the districts where the worm has appeared, Mr. Worsham offers the following formula for its extinction:

One pound of arsenate of lead, mixed with from eight to ten pounds of flour or slaked lime. It may also be used with from fifteen to twenty parts of Paris green. The mixture should be placed in eight-ounce duck sacks and dusted over the plant.

COUNCILMAN C. W. SMITH OFFICIATES AS RECORDER

In the absence of Recorder Broyles, who is in Macon attending the convention, Councilman C. W. Smith, of the NInth ward, held court Tuesday morning.

The first case Councilman Smith tried was that of J. W. Kent, 171 Carson street, arrested on complaint of John Jenkins, a farmer of Milburn, Ga.

Jenkins said he had come to Atlanta with a roll of bills to see the sights. He secured a room from R. T. Venable, who runs a rooming house at 52½ Piedmont avenue. Kent occupied the same room and suggested he could obtain some whisky for Jenkins. Jenkins agreed and Kent returned shortly with the whisky. Jenkins missed his purse and accused Kent of taking it. Kent was locked up.

Venable, called as a witness, was charged by Kent with having sold him liquor on various other occasions. A case was ordered made against him and he was fined $100.75. Kent was fined $25.75.

PLAYGROUND SEASON IN COLLEGE PARK CLOSED

The playground season in College Park was brought to a close Monday morning by a program especially arranged for the occasion.

The closing exercises which consisted of games and field day events, were held on the public school grounds near the depot. Dan Carey, manager of Atlanta's playgrounds, addressed the children and mothers present and compliimented them upon the work done for the children, making particular mention of the College Park Woman's club. It was largely through the instrumentality of this organization that the playground was maintained during the summer.

COL. JOHN J. WOODSIDE IS ILL IN NEW YORK

Son, John J. Woodside, Jr., Left Atlanta Monday to Be With Father

Friends in Atlanta are awaiting news from Colonel John J. Woodside, who is understood to have been taken directly from an incoming steamer Sunday to a New York sanitarium, where he is now ill. Mrs. Woodside and his sister, Mrs. Alma Kirkhamp, of Louisville, Ky., are with him. His son, John J. Woodside, Jr., left Atlanta Monday for New York, after receiving a message from Mrs. Woodside.

Mrs. J. G. Gause, of 653 Ponce de Leon avenue, Mrs. Woodside's sister, said Tuesday morning she expected to hear fully detail from Mrs. Woodside at any moment.

"My sister and Colonel Woodside and Mrs. Kirkhamp arrived Sunday from Ireland," she explained. "They sailed from Londonderry several days ago on the Columbia of the Anchorage line. Mrs. Kirkhamp having joined the two others after a number of exciting experiences in the war zone. She had been marooned in Germany when the war broke out, and apparently escaped from that country without even her baggage. Colonel and Mrs. Woodside left Atlanta July 4. He has been in poor health for some time, and the voyage was mainly in the interest of his own recuperation from years of hard work."

CHILD STRUCK BY AYER AUTO SERIOUSLY HURT

Ten-Year-Old Boy Receives Fractured Skull in Cherokee Avenue Accident

Alfred Jones, the ten-year-old son of Arthur B. Jones, of 185 Cherokee avenue, was seriously injured Friday afternoon when struck by the automobile of C. K. Ayer, of 236 Myrtle street. Taken to the Grady hospital immediately after the accident, the lad was found to have sustained a fractured skull and minor injuries. Tuesday morning his condition is reported as critical.

In the car at the time of the accident were Mr. and Mrs. Ayer and the driver, W. T. McCullough. The accident occurred on Cherokee avenue near Sidney street. The street is being repaired at this point, it is said, and traffic was for this reason considerably congested. Mr. Ayer states that his car was being driven slowly, but that the Jones lad appeared suddenly from behind a wagon just in front and was struck before his driver could bring the car to a stop. The boy was rushed to the hospital in the Ayer machine.

WAR BULLETINS

RUSSIAN IRON RING AROUND LEMBERG.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—A dispatch to the Times from St. Petersburg gives the following comment on the Russian operations against the Austrians:

"The Russian operations against the Austrians are considered by recognized military writers to have reached the stage when decisive victories may be within reach. The capture of the railroad center, forty miles south of Lemberg, involves the rupture of railway communication with the Austrian fortresses on the Dniester and in Bukovina is severed from the remaining portions of Galicia, except by a circuitous route across the Carpathians. As a result the iron ring is closing around Lemberg.

"According to the Russko Slovo the losses suffered by the Austrians in their desperate attempt to strike at the vitals of the Russian position in Poland aggregating tens of thousands of men, including the Sixth Austrian corps which on its retreat between the western Bug and the Wieprz rivers was almost annihilated."

GERMANS EVACUATE AERSCHOT.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company from Antwerp gives the latest official communication issued there. It says:

"The situation throughout the country is stationary. The Germans have evacuated Aerschot and railway communication has been restored over the greater part of the Campine country.

"Melines was bombarded for an hour, although the town was not occupied by Belgian troops. This was a fresh crime against the civil population."

A dispatch to the Post from Antwerp says the Germans have evacuated the province of Antwerp, presumably as part of their scheme for the withdrawal of unnecessary troops, who will be used to replace those taken for service against Russia. Part of the forces in the province of Limburg have also been withdrawn.

A dispatch to the Reuter Telegraph company from Ostend reports that the refugees from Aerschot, twenty-three miles northeast of Brussels, accuse the German troops of having pillaged and burned half the town.

GERMAN GENERAL DIES.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—In a dispatch from the Amsterdam correspondent of the Central News, it was said that during the German bombardment of Malines the painting by Rubens representing the "Miraculous Draught of Fishes" was destroyed. It hung in the church of Notre Dame. The correspondent declares that the German general, Prince Von Buelow, who was wounded in the battle of Haelen, has since died.

Various places in Belgium now occupied by the Germans, according to this same authority, have been posted with placards announcing that the Germans now consider Belgium a German province.

MONTENEGRINS DEFEAT AUSTRIANS.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Cettinje states that the Austrians, supported by the Cattaro batteries and their fleet on Sunday re-attacked Mount Lovchen and Budua. The Montenegrin positions were being seriously damaged when the English and French fleet put in a timely appearance, silenced the batteries and forced the Austrian ships to beat a hasty retreat.

The Montenegrins, under Prince Peter, immediately began a counter attack on the Austrian forces and repulsed them. They killed 450 men and took many prisoners, including several officers. Two pieces of artillery also were captured.

BERLIN IN PANIC OVER RUSSIAN ADVANCE.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The Hague correspondent of the Express says:

"There is the greatest alarm in Berlin over the advance of the Russian troops. The news that the emperor has left the western headquarters and moved to the Russian front has shown the residents of the capital where the immediate peril lies.

"A story has been circulated that the Russians are preparing to avenge Louvain by treating Berlin in the same way as the Germans treated Louvain. Many persons are going to Norway, Denmark and Switzerland.

"In connection with the siege of Liege it is told here that the German artillery experts after vainly trying every type of field gun at their command against the forts, sent to the Krupp factory for a new fourteen-inch naval gun which was set down four miles from the nearest Liege fort. The first shot fired from it hit the officers' mess house inside the Belgian fortification, killing 125 men.

GERMANS DRIVEN FROM AMIENS.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The Times correspondent at Dieppe sends the following:

"I have just returned from the Amiens districts to send this dispatch. A great battle has been fought at Croisilles and is probably still in progress.

"The French claim a success towards Guise but south of it all Saturday there was heavy fighting.

"On the left I know cannonading was still going on at noon Sunday and that at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon there were no Germans in Amiens.

"Whether, as some declare, the lines between Amiens and Boulogne have been cut I do not know."

VETERAN PAU CONQUERS 50,000 GERMANS.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—An Antwerp dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company says:

"It is reported here that General Pau has won a brilliant victory over 50,000 Germans near Peronnes, in the department of Somme."

KAISER FAILS TO BREAK ALLIES' LINES.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—"The Anglo-French army corps have had to give ground, but nowhere have they been broken through," is the statement given out at the French embassy in London today.

This announcement is a summary of that part of the official communication of the French war office referring to the German attack on the French left wing made public in Paris last night.

ITALIANS FIGHT FOR SERVIA.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Nish, Servia, says that eight of the Italian Garibaldin volunteers who are with the Servians aganist Austria, have thus far fallen in the fighting on the frontier.

TRIPLE ENTENTE HAS SHIPS TO SELL U. S.

Purchase of Marine Vessels, If Made From All Belligerents, Would Be Agreeable

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Expressions from each of the powers of the triple entente that they would regard with disfavor the purchase of German steamers for the establishment of an American merchant marine were before administration officials for consideration today. Great Britain, France and Russia contend that vast sums of money would be placed at the disposal of the Germans through the transfer of marooned German steamers to the United States. It was suggested, however, by envoys of the entente that if the Washington government bought an equal number of ships from each of the belligerents there would be no objection.

The merchant marine bill to authorize organization of a $10,000,000 government controlled shipping corporation was taken up today in the house marine committee with Majority Leader Underwood and Secretary McAdoo leading the discussion in its favor.

Paris May Expect Bombs, Says German Ambassador

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Commenting on dispatches which said bombs had been dropped in Paris from a German aeroplane, Count Von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States, said today the people of Paris should not expect anything else, as Paris is a fortified city.

"All fortified cities will be stormed," he said. The bombs he thought, had probably been directed at fortifications.

Count Von Bernstorff was firmly of the opinion that Italy would not be drawn into the European conflict even if Turkey should go to was as an ally of Germany.

"I do not believe Italy will go to war," he said. "The Italian premier only a day or two ago announced Italy's neutrality."

No dispatches from Berlin had reached Count Von Bernstorff this afternoon.

Board of Neutrality To Pass on Adriatic

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The status of the White Star liner Adriatic, of the British naval reserve, which reached New York Saturday with guns mounted and a small quantity of ammunition aboard, will be determined by the special board of neutrality of the state and navy departments.

A telegram was received today at the treasury from Collector Malone at New York announcing the arrival of the Adriatic and saying her captain declared the guns were carried only for protection and that the steamer would leave New York September 3.

GERMAN SHELLS DID NOT EXPLODE AT HELIGOLAND

English Sailor Declares He Threw Number of Shells Overboard

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The Harwich correspondent of the Telegraph gives interviews with sailors who were wounded in the recent naval battle off Heligoland.

Many of the German shells which made hits, it appears, did not burst.

"There were five shells in the boiler room of one of the destroyers," he quotes one of the sailors as saying, "and if one had burst it would have been all up with the ship."

"What did you do with them?" was asked.

"Oh, I just shied them overboard. There was no room for such rubbish aboard our yacht."

In another instance, the correspondent says, it is related that a shell fell on a British ship and as there was no immediate explosion the sailors pushed it into the sea.

The Germans also showed considerable grit, it is declared. As one of the cruisers was sinking with decks aflame and the flag mast shot away the only man left in the forecastle hoisted the flag and calmly went down with the ship. Proof that some of the Germans were shot by their own officers, the correspondent says, is given by one of the wounded Germans landed at Shotley, who has seven revolver bullets in his body. He could have received such wounds only on his own ship.

GORDON COUNTY WOMAN IS INDICTED FOR MURDER

True Bill Charges Mrs. Charles Chapman With Killing Her Uncle

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CALHOUN, Ga., Sept. 1.—Mrs. Charles Chapman, a young woman of thirty, is in jail here charged with the murder of her uncle, Sid Chapman, on March 21, last. Her arrest and imprisonment followed the finding of a true bill against her by the grand jury, which has been in session here for the past week.

The killing created a great deal of excitement here and the preliminary trial was attended by great crowds. The result of this was the liberation of the accused woman after she had made a sensational confession, stating that she shot her uncle because he had made an attack upon her.

There were several alleged discrepancies in her testimony, however, and when the present grand jury investigated the whole affair a bill was quickly found. The accused woman will remain in jail until the trial, not being able to make the $2,000 bond set by Judge Fite.

The killing occurred in the early morning, and shortly after sunrise the body was found lying at the back door of the house in which the Chapmans lived. At first both the accused and her mother declared that they knew absolutely nothing of the killing, but later the young woman confessed.

PARIS MOB ATTEMPTS TO ATTACK 3 GERMAN SPIES

One of Germans Arrested in French Lines Wore Uniform of Belgian Officer

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 1.—Three German spies were brought from Beauvais, south of Amiens, last night by a squad of French troopers. They were arrested in the French lines. One wore the uniform of a Belgian officer. At the station the soldiers with difficulty protected them from a mob. They finally were conducted in safety to prison.

Cotton and Real Estate Accounting Added To Draughon's Practical Bookkeeping

A Much Needed Course in the South Where Cotton is "King" and Where Millions Are Made on Real Estate.

H. R. TODD, Supt.

For a quarter of a century Draughon's has been the guiding star in commercial training and has often been imitated, but never equaled. This chain of 52 colleges located in 16 states has more indorsements from bankers than all other business colleges in the south combined, which is the strongest evidence of the thoroughness and reliability of these popular and well-equipped schools.

Draughon's "Double Entry Made-Easy" and special column feature of bookkeeping saves at least 50 per cent of time and worry to the practical bookkeeper, and will enable him to show an exact statement of the business at any day, hour, or minute. In other words, it is a complete system of bookkeeping.

Draughon's Colleges teach the Graham-Pitman system of Shorthand which, according to the records, is used by over 75 per cent of the official court reporters of the United States, and Draughon's simplified text-book on this subject is the best-known method of presenting shorthand thoroughly and practically.

Draughon's Colleges take no stock in the short "lopped-off" systems, but aim to so train their students that they may step from the college to a business office and take up the work without embarrassment. That is why business men want Draughon-Trained students, and that is why a beaten path leads to the college door.

Here is an extract from a letter from J. A. Bloodworth, with Lowry National Bank, Atlanta, Ga., and which is self-explanatory:

"Since the completion of my course in Draughon's Business College, I have talked with several prominent men on the line of business colleges of the present time, and am pleased to say that in every instance Draughon's has been given the name of turning out young men and women that do things—students that keep crowding the boss for his job. I highly recommend the school for its thorough system of bookkeeping, and its up-to-date methods of training young men and young women to meet the responsibilities of life."

The regular $50 Life-scholarship in bookkeeping or shorthand for $40, both courses combined for $70. Cotton and Real Estate Accounting free with either bookkeeping or banking.

If you are not ready to enroll now you may send check for scholarship desired and enter at your convenience.

Night school $5 a month, three nights a week, beginning September 1.

CAN 11,000,000 MEN DEFEAT 17,000,000?

Perhaps not, if all the forces were lined up in one big decisive battle. In the history of nations strategy, zeal and craftiness have frequently overcome the obstacle of superior numbers. A handful of men has often successfully defended a difficult mountain pass against a regiment. All our good citizens have suddenly become prophets—every man and woman, every street urchin has an opinion regarding the final outcome of the great European War. Get the facts before YOU prophesy—get them from a reliable source. Learn all about the European Powers— population, national debts, area, armed strength, the rulers, past history, previous successes, etc. ALL THIS AND MUCH MORE are contained in The JOURNAL'S big European War Map. Get this map—study it; then form a really intelligent opinion.

READY REFERENCE AT ALL TIMES
This map folds so as to fit the pocket, and is a ready reference for the daily changes as they transpire during the great conflict. It is an absolute necessity if you would follow and understand the latest news in the cable dispatches from abroad. The greatest conflicts often occur at some heretofore obscure town—therefore the necessity for a recent, reliable, complete map.

WAR CHARTS
The big war map is 18½x16½ inches, and contains ALL the war area. Then there are NINE CHARTS showing fortified towns, naval area, big battle ground plans, and ALL of the big war capitals in detail. Everything is fully covered, from the rock of Gibraltar to the Ural Mountains.

KAISER'S MEN HAVE TOUGH ASSIGNMENT IN CAPTURING PARIS

Germans Concede French Capital Is Greatest Fortified City in World—Can Stand Long Siege

BY W. S. ZIMMERMAN.

How long can Paris hold back a flood of victorious Germans dashing at its gates?

In 1870 the city resisted the Prussians for four months, although it was not prepared for a siege. Today tons of provisions and hundreds of cattle are being rushed within the city's safety zone for Frenchmen are getting ready to make a last, desperate stand behind its massive fortifications.

The kaiser will have a hard nut to crack before he dictates terms of peace within the world's gayest capital. German military text-books concede that Paris is the greatest fortified city. Frenchmen believe it impregnable. American military men say it ought to hold out at least one year against a besieging army of 500,000 men.

Everything that the human mind can conceive in the way of defensive warfare is on hand in Paris. Thirty-six huge, turreted forts—each containing from 24 to 60 guns—garrisoned by 170,000 men, form the basis of the defenses. The ground has been mined, or made impassable by traps and entanglements for miles and miles. Aeroplanes and the latest types of bombs and aerial guns are ready to beat off Zeppelins if they appear.

In addition to the permanent garrisons the plans of defense call for 200,000 men as secondary defense. These men placed in trenches, behind breastworks and in small steel cupalo forts and armed with quick-fire and machine guns, will be depended upon to beat off the invaders who survive the terrific cross-fire poured into their ranks.

Look at the bird's-eye map a moment and you will see why Paris can be so stubbornly defended. The city, built in a valley, is surrounded by slow-lying hills. These heights are crowned with forts bristling with guns which command miles of the country below. As a rule the strongholds are located so that two of them, and sometimes three of them, may pour a withering cross-fire into any enemy which gets in range. In case of siege the gaps in the line will be stopped by the secondary defenders in bombproof shelters and trenches in sufficient force, it is thought to check an army.

To get into the city the invaders have to pass three concentric rings of fortresses. Of these the first line, seventy-five miles in a very rough circle and about twelve miles from the center of the city, is made up of nineteen strongholds of concrete and steel.

Five miles to the rear and filling the gaps of the first line are seventeen turreted citadels on a ring about thirty-four miles in circumference. These are the forts which bore the brunt of the attack in 1871, but all of them have been modernized and in many cases connected by heavy ramparts for the shelter of supporting infantry.

Paris is out of range of guns bombarding the two outer lines, but the third line is weak. That is the old wall of Paris twenty-one miles in perimeter, although strengthened by a forty-eight-foot moat, is only capable of beating off cavalry raids and small scouting parties. It is said that about 100 square miles of territory is under the protection of the city's guns, but it is possible that the area is nearer 500 miles.

WAR BULLETINS

BELIEVED BRITISH HAVE ATTACKED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Dow, Jones & Co., publishers of the Wall Street Journal, published the following item on their news tickers today:

"London.—Censorship was suddenly tightened at noon without warning. Numerous dispatches relating to operations in France and Belgium were held up by the government's orders.

"Foregoing dispatch is highly significant.

"'Operations in Belgium,' may relate to a rear attack on Germans by British troops reported to have landed at Ostend."

AUSTRIANS LOSE 20,000 MEN.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—A dispatch to the Daily News from Rome declares that news has been received there from Bucharest, Rumania, stating that the Russians have inflicted a crushing defeat on the Austrians in Galicia. The Russians inflicted a loss of 20,000 men on the enemy, who sought to cross the Vistula.

FRENCH ANNIHILATE GERMAN REGIMENT.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The French ambassador, J. J. Jusserand, today received this official dispatch from Paris:

"In the Vosges and in Lorraine our troops began an advance again yesterday. At Sassey on the Meuse a regiment of German infantry was nearly annihilated. On our left wing German progress made. Russian offensive advance progressing."

GERMANS GIVE UP THREE CITIES.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company from Paris says that a member of the French chamber of deputies for one of the northern departments of France, who has arrived at the French capital, declares there are no Germans at Lille, Roubaix or Tourcoing.

The group of towns referred to are in the department Du Nord and all within twenty miles of the Belgian frontier. Dispatches last week said that they had been occupied by German troops.

BRITISH GUNS GOUGE BIG GAPS IN RANKS OF GERMAN FORCES

Wounded English Soldier Describes Terrific Fighting at Mons in Which Kaiser's Men Were Licked

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The following story of the fighting near Mons was told by one of the British wounded who was brought here Monday:

"We had left the shelter of a little forest and opened out, supported by the north country regiment. Our colonel warned us that the German infantry was advancing.

"We had hardly extended ourselves prone along the grass when patches of blue and green were seen on the sky line and soon battalions of the enemy were made out following each other at regular intervals.

"Our batteries let rip and gouged holes through them.

"'Bravo,'" shouted my platoon commander as he watched through his glasses. Now the order was given to fix bayonets. Before the enemy arrived the artillery fire had increased until it was an inferno. German aviators were directing their guns and at times we fired on aeroplanes but our shots were ineffective. Our poor gunners had an awful time as the German cavalry got around behind us and charged right up to the guns. Very few of the Germans escaped, however, for whole platoons rushed to the rescue emptying their magazines as they ran.

"A moment later the Germans were on us from the front. We let them come until their breasts rose above the neighboring hillock and then decimated them. They fell back in confusion and dropped to the ground.

"Another line came which we treated the same way. Scores of machine guns were turned on us, however, and we were ordered to prepare to charge.

"On the word of command we sprang from the ground as one man and with a yell cheered the advancing Prussians. 'As we neared their ranks we fired indiscriminately and only a few remained to cross bayonets with us. The remainder rushed off and were shot in the back as they went. They left more than half their regiment on the field in killed and wounded."

OLD TRICK WORKED.

Wounded men in the hospitals of Boulogne related to the Express correspondent there incidents of the fighting between the British and Germans. One of the men, he says, told of a trick which the British learned in the Boer war and which worked very well against the Germans. The story of the incident follows:

"The enemy before sending their infantry against our positions, opened a hot artillery fire. Our artillery replied, at first warmly and then gun after gun of the British batteries went silent.

"'What's up now?' I asked a comrade. There were a few minutes more of artillery firing from the Germans and then they suddenly came on in solid formation. We received them with rifle fire, still they came on and still we poured them in. They were getting closer and we could plainly see the dense masses moving. Then suddenly the whole of our artillery opened fire.

BOOK NEVER PUBLISHED GIVES FORTUNE TO GIRL

Manuscript Proves Dislike of Charles Treadwell for Relatives in Will Contest

The admission in evidence of a book, showing the intense dislike of the author for his blood relations, played an important part in the trial of a suit of D. T. Heary, of Clarkston, to obtain possession of the $25,000 estate of the late Charles Treadwell for his young daughter, Miss Jessie Heary.

The jury on Monday awarded the entire estate to the little girl after a trial at Jonesboro before Judge Charles Reid, of the Stone Mountain circuit. Heary who brought siut as his daughter's next friend, was represented by Attorneys Colquitt and Conyers. Soon after the death, four years ago, of Charles Treadwell, eight half brothers and sisters, claimed his estate. Mr. Henry brought a counter claim, saying that a number of years before his death Mr. Treadwell agreed that if allowed to live at the Heary home in Clarkston for the rest of his life, he would leave his estate to little Jessie Heary, who was only 12 years old at the time of his death.

Besides proving the oral agreement, Attorneys Colquitt and Conyers introduced a book, which was never published, to show that the deceased had no love for his relations and would not have left the property to them if he had made a will, which he did not.

The book was written to be an attack on the divorce laws. Treadwell in it told how, when he was a young boy his father and mother were divorced, and both remarried.

He then referred to his parents as father and mother No. 1 and to his step-parents as father and mother No. 2.

In the book, he said: "I went to live with father No. 1 and mother No. 2—they didn't want me because their time was occupied with their children. So I went to live with mother No. 1 and father No. 2, and there I got the same cold reception.

In the course of the book Treadwell says that he was 16 years of age, when the civil war commenced, and was then living in Indiana. Although he did not want to enlist, he says that father and mother Nos. 1 got together and swore his age was 19 years and sent him to the front.

DR. J. CHESTON KING OPENS NEW SANITARIUM

Members of Fulton County Medical Society and Others Guests at Opening

Dr. J. Cheston King was host Tuesday afternoon, to his fellow members of the Fulton County Medical society and other friends at the opening of his new "rest cure" sanitarium on Peachtree road. The occasion was an opportunity for inspection of the magnificent new plant by the county's physicians, and it was made complete by a barbecue.

The new sanitarium is on Peachtree road, two and a half miles beyond Buckhead, on a tract of twenty-five acres that fronts for several hundred feet on the road. It is a modern, fireproof institution of 100 sunlit rooms, with all the equipment and conveniences of a thoroughly modern sanitarium. It is the successor of the Howell Park sanitarium in Atlanta.

Mayor of Vancouver 'Sore' Because Papers Print British Defeats

(By Associated Press.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 1.—Because, he says, American newspapers publish sensational reports of wholesale German defeats, and magnify imaginary German victories, the mayor of Vancouver called on the chief of police and the city solicitor for advice on how he can prevent legally the bringing of American papers into the city.

ST. PETERSBURG CHANGES NAME TO PETROGRAD

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 1.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company from St. Petersburg says that by imperial order the city of St. Petersburg, capital of the Russian empire since 1712, will henceforth be known as Petrograd. This change eliminates the Teuton construction in the name by which the chief city of Russia has been known since it was founded by Peter the Great in 1703.

MISTAKE OF PRINTER STOPS COUNTY SALES

Usual Sheriff's Sale in Front of Court House Goes Over for Month

There was no sheriff's sale in front of the court house on Tuesday September 1.

This is the first time in the history of the county that the first Tuesday of a month has passed without a single sale of property by the sheriff's office.

The hand of a printer on a morning paper who picked up too much type on a "kill order" is the cause of the breaking of all county records, for he "killed" not only the order marked to be "killed" but the caution covering all of the sheriff's advertisements as well.

Since the time and the place of the sale was omitted, all advertisements were made illegal, and attorneys for people, whose property was about to go forcibly under the hammer, were quick to call attention to the illegality. As a result the sale was called off for the month and a double business will be done on the first Tuesday of next month.

When the omission of the caption was noted by the sheriff's office the attention of the advertising manager of the organ in which the official county advertisements are placed, was called to the error, but it was then too late to make a correction.

NAVAL STORES TO COME UNDER WAREHOUSE PLAN

(BY RALPH SMITH.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 1.—In keeping with the policy of the administration to employ every means at its command to liberalize the currency in the present stress, Secretary of Treasury McAdoo today decided to include warehouse receipts for naval stores in the list of securities against which emergency currency may be issued through regularly organized currency associations. Currency will be issued against naval store warehouse receipts on substantially the same basis and terms as those fixed by the treasury department for the issuance of currensy against cotton warehouse receipts.

Congressmen Edwards and Walker, of Georgia, who number among their constituents many persons interested in naval stores, expressed keen approval when informed of Secretary McAdoo's purpose to make naval store receipts negotiable. They are sure that it will afford relief to Georgia.

The cotton warehouse bill, which has been in the hands of a subcommittee of the house agriculture committee, will be reported probably tomorrow. The subcommittee, of which Congressman Gordon Lee is a member, has practically perfected the measure.

Anniversary Celebration In Cooperstown, N. Y.

The Rev. Dr. Ralph Birdsall and Mrs. Birdsall celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary yesterday afternoon with a reception at Christ church rectory, Albany, New York society, which makes up the greatest part of Cooperstown's summer colony was well represented among the guests. One of the interesting events of the reception was the first exhibition of a portrait in oil of the rector and his little daughter, Gertrude. This portrait was painted last summer as an exhibition picture by Miss Louise L. Heustis, a New York artist and was the anniversary gift to Mrs. Birdsall from several of her friends. The presentation was made by Mrs. Walter C. Stokes of New York.

Receiving with Mrs. Birdsall were several of her bridesmaids and her sis- Mrs. John E. J. Fanshave of Philadelphia.

Dr. Birdsall began his ministry as a curate of St. Paul's church, Albany, and was the first rector of St. Andrew's church in Albany from which he was called to Cooperstown in 1902. Mrs. Birdsall was Jessie Cicely Reid one of the twin daughters of Judge Harry M. Reid, of Atlanta, Ga.—Exchange.

Wednesday Mrs. Elder will entertain the Atlanta Alumnae chapter of the Beta Sigma Omicron Sorority in honor of the new members of the chapter who will return shortly to Hollins.

American Minister Describes The Passing of an Empress

Mr. P. A. Stovall, the American minister, writes interestingly from Switzerland of a world-known character, the Empress Eugenie, and says in the Savannah Press:

"One of the guests at the Hotel Schweizerhof, in Lucerne, the other day was ex-Empress Eugenie of France. Bent with age and walking with a cane, she is eighty-eight years old and in her day was undeniably the first and most beautiful woman on the continent of Europe.

* * *

"What a wonderful span of years has bridged the history of the world since she was the social magnet at the court of France, charming every man and woman even before she became the bride of Napoleon III. As Countess di Montijo of the Spanish nobleese she was celebrated for her beauty and grace long before she became the empress of the French. Her marriage was a love match; nothing morganatic about it, for Eugenie held undisputed the throne of her husband. This high-strung, handsome Spaniard gave him to understand at the outset that she would accept him under no other conditions.

* * *

"The Empress Eugenie travels under the name of the Countess of Pierfonds. She is a hearty eater and is fond of good things. She is also one of the richest women in Europe and owns considerable property in Spain and France. She travels quietly, spends little and it seems to be understood that she will leave her fortune to the infant son of Prince Victor Napoleon, who a few years ago married the daughter of the late King Leopold of Belgium. If so the little boy will be the wealthiest claimant to a throne in Europe.

* * *

"Lots of water has flowed under the bridge since Eugenie held men's hearts and even won the admiration of women—a much harder thing to do—at the court of France. She possessed the dangerous power of fascination, but in their secret souls the French never liked her. They resented the influence of the Spanish countess upon the government as they had done that of Marie Antoinette, the Austrian duchess. In truth her husband was not a great man. He was regarded as an interloper in Europe, and his military campaigns never really added to the glory of France. He won his throne by his name and his schemes of conquest fell far short of those of his illustrious uncle. He was plainly deceived as to the state of the French army and the preparedness of France in 1870. French statesmen warned the Emperor; Eugenie was inexorable—she wanted war possibly because she realized that something was needed to build up the uncertain popularity of a tottering throne.

* * *

"But if Empress Eugenie made mistakes, she has dearly atoned for them. If she was responsible for the fiasco in Mexico, and for the French defeat by Prussia—and French people said she was—she drank dredged to the dregs the bitter cup. A widow at 46, bereft of her home, courtiers scattered, every vestige of her empire gone, she has been a wanderer for nearly half a century—this beautiful Spanish countess without fixed connections. As she passed out of Schweizerhof, in Lucerne, people looked at the elderly lady, whose family name recalled so much history and her sombre robe seemed to suggest so much tragedy. Rich but homeless, she has died for awhile in Switzerland, which has always furnished an asylyum for the exiled—where Voltaire wrote and Madame de Stael dreamed and talked. But the royal way in which she waved the roses and flashed a smile of gratefulness for the beauties of La France recalled something of her southern charm. Then the dark veil fell down over the white hair and the aged figure bent again upon the cane. The Empress took the arm of her attendant and was soon lost in the throng which lined the lakeside.

Fashion Notes for the Coming Season

The Newest Train.

One of the newest Premet models shows a train made of the end of the sash. The sash—if such it can be called—is drawn around from a point above the waist line in front, back over the hips to a large bow half way down the back. Here one of the ends is transformed into the train which extends for nearly a yard beyond the hem of the skirt.

* *

The New Suit Coat.

The probable length of the suit coat for the coming autumn and winter has been a question of much speculation. In London latest reports seem to indicate that we shall have much variety. Already some of the newest models are shown in short length coats. There are also medium and three-quarter length coats and the seven-eighth coat is perhaps the newest and because of its warmth will probably be one of the most popular lengths for winter wear.

* * *

Where the Flower Is Worn.

A few weeks ago fashionable women thought they had struck the newest note when they began to wear their artificial flower somewhere under the left ear, but fashion forever eludes the grasp of its devotees. And now just as we have readjusted the artificial flowers on all our gowns fashion changes her mind. The left hip is now the correct point for the rose or poppy that lends distinction to the gown. A new green satin evening frock shows a large pink rose on the left hip and one of the new Premet models is a cream-color taffeta with a large black velvet poppy caught nonchalantly on the skirt at the same point. Whether or not we shall wear the boutonniere chosen for our fall suit on the left hip of the skirt is a matter for speculation. Stranger whims than that has fashion taken.

* * *

The Richer Note.

With the tendency toward richer materials that was predicted a few weeks ago there has already come a return to favor of metallic lace. Sometimes flelace shows a pattern wrought in silver threads. Brocade foundation bodices made of colored silk and metallic threads are shown in many of the newest evening gowns. The newest hats show trimmings of metallic roses and the ribbon manufacturers report a heavy demand for gold and silver ribbons—probably in anticipation of the autumn demand from milliners.

* * *

The New Sweaters.

The new sweaters slip on over the head. They are made with a six-inch opening at the neck in front, which can be buttoned up or left open as one desires. These sweaters were first seen at the fashionable watering places in France. They are made in wool jersey in pale blue, yellow, brick red and pink.

* *

Are Shawls to Return?

At the fashionable European resorts during the past few weeks a return of the shawl has been reported. These shawls, which are worn evening wraps are large squares of rich silk with an eighteen-inch fringe lending grace and suppleness to their folds. They are highly suggestive of Spanish mode and are especially effective when draped about the body or when worn with the Empress Eugenie gown.

* *

Ostrich Feathers.

Burnt ostrich remains in much demand, as it is one of the most graceful hat trimming feathers now in use. Regulation ostrich plumes are used to some extent, and the large hat, which seems to be coming rather slowly, might bring a big demand for ostrich. Some of the new models in black velvet or sailor shape are trimmed with a group of ostrich plumes on the right side.

* *

The New Fur Capes

The new fur capes have been decidedly influenced by the Russian fabric capes that women have been wearing. Last year, it may be remembered, preference was made that the fabric capes of fur garment of next winter might be the cape. This prediction will be fulfilled only in part. The new fur coats that are decidedly of the sort to become as popular as their rather high price allows. But the cape will be much made in fur and the feature that it owes to the fabric capes is the belt or strap arrangement that is quite generally developed in it. There is a fitting belt that begins in straps coming from the front of the cape or from the shoulders and this belt holds the cape warmly and securely in place.

MRS. WILLIAMS' LONG SICKNESS

Yields To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Elkhart, Ind.:—"I suffered for fourteen years from organic inflammation, female weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such awful bearing down feelings, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sanative Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.

"If these lines will be of any benefit you have my permission to publish them."—Mrs. SADIE WILLIAMS, 455 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

OPERA STAR FEARS FOR BRUSSELS' FATE

Yvonne de Treville.

(Special Correspondence.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—"If the Germans destroy Brussels the loss to the musical world will be irreparable," declares Yvonne de Treville, grand opera prima donna.

"The destruction of those two splendid temples of music, Conservatoire de Musique, and the Theater Royal de la Monnaie would have a disastrous effect on music; the conservatory has one of the finest collections of historic musical instruments in the world, and the royal theater has always stood sponsor for aspiring composers."

Program for Suffrage Meeting

An interesting program has been arranged by the Atlanta Equal Suffrage association for the meeting on Wednesday afternoon, 3:30 o'clock, in parlor "E" of the Ansley hotel.

"Nature Study" will be the subject of an address by Mrs. Charles W. Davis, and Mrs. John W. Rowlett will speak on "Child Welfare Work."

A business session will follow the program, and every member is urged to be present, as business of importance will be transacted.

ENGAGEMENT OF MISS KING AND MR. JAMES C. MANRY

Professor and Mrs. Edward Skinner King of the Harvard University Observatory announce the engagement of their daughter Margaret Wight to Mr. James Campbell Manry.

Cordial interest will be felt in this announcement in Atlanta. Mr. Manry who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Manry and the grandson of Mrs. Daniel Pittman and the late Mr. Pittman is a representative of Georgia for many years prominently identified with the life of the south. His collegiate career has been a brilliant one. He is graduate secretary of the Phillips Brooks House at Harvard and is secretary of the board of directors of the Harvard Mission. He has also spent much time in England attending the university at Oxford. Mr. Manry was ordained for the ministry Wednesday evening, August 26, at the Second Baptist church by Dr. Lansing Burrows in the presence of the family connection and many interested friends. He left during the past few days for Massachusetts where he will be engaged in special work for a year after which he will go to India to take a professorship in philosophy at Ewing college.

Guests at Bridge Luncheon

The bridge luncheon which Miss Marion Neal will give in compliment to her guest, Miss Undine Hugo, of San Antonio, Texas, will be an event of Friday.

The invited guests include: Miss Marie Cobb, Miss Wycliff Wurm, Miss Helen Rhorer, Miss Ydoine Rose, Miss Josephine Smith, Miss Martha Crane, Miss Muriel Linthicum, Miss Pauline Randall, Miss Helen Dykes, Miss Fay Dobbs, Miss Mary Murphy, Miss Margaret Murphey, of Newnan, Miss Edna Crawford, of Columbus, Miss Mary Howard, Miss Gladys Byrd, Miss Lillie Williams, Miss Eleanor Williams, Miss Tommie Hancock, Miss Laura Sawtell, Miss Josephine Henderson, Miss Jan Robinson, Miss Elizabeth Black, Miss Virginia Hall, Miss Annie Maud Schuessler, and Miss Eolise Gay.

Mrs. Hamilton Couper, will assist in entertaining.

Muscle Food for the Hard Toiler

The man who labors hard physically needs nutritious food. He needs a concentrated food—a food that is also easily digested. And the price of the food must be cheap.

That doesn't mean that the hard toiler needs a lot of meat (as many wives think), for there are other foods equally if not more nutritious.

Take Faust Spaghetti, for example. A 10c package contains four times more nutrition than meat—it is rich in gluten—it is easily digested, and you can make a whole big family meal with a 10c package.

Try it often. Cook the spaghetti for 25 minutes or so with some red ripe tomatoes. Serve with powdered cheese and bread and butter. Makes bully good eating. Send for recipe book, 5c and 10c packages.—(Advt.)

Announcement of Interest Regarding New Suits for Fall

Only one or two of a kind; about fifty styles to choose from, and the VALUES ARE ALMOST SENSATIONAL.

Priced at $15 and $25

These are Suits of elegance and distinction such as one would hardly expect to find at such prices.

At $15 for instance, are suits made to sell for $30 and $35, they are sample models, we bought them at a concession which enables us to to offer them at this special price.

The Suits at $25 are values equally great. It is an appreciable opportunity for school and college going young women, and also for their elders needing suits to start the winter.

The Long Redingote Coats

One of the popular features for Fall—they are here in great variety of styles and fabrics, and are vastly becoming for certain types of figure. The materials are gabardine, broadcloth, poplin, men's wear serge, wide wale cheviot, diagonals and novelty cloths. There are blues, black, plum, or prune, green and brown—all admirably tailored.

Short Coats are Equally Popular and Correct

Great as is the demand for long coats, the short coat in its many interesting variations is equally popular, with plain and tunic skirts. For American women are learning that false styles are merely the right garment on the wrong woman. That because a thing is new does not make it good style, and that in order to be well dressed one must choose an attire for its suitability and becomingness.

Good dressing is not the monopoly of the rich, but of women of taste and intelligence. Only they know how to keep their desire for what is merely new, in check.

Not every woman can wear, becomingly, a Redingote Coat, hence the demand for short coats, and hence these short coats. They are the last word in style, are well cut, beautifully tailored, well finished, and Suits truly wonderful at the prices we have quoted.

$15 and $25

A Word About Colors for Fall

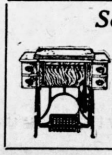

Color is one of the most important elements in beauty. Color is one of the vital essentials in dress. Every season new shades are invented and old ones revived.

It is wise to learn the names of the new colors as they appear, for the same shade often has several different names, as this season one popular hue is equally well known as plum, prune and grape, and it is not only interesting but valuable to know the names of the various gradations of tone.

There are four colors that will lead this season. They are: Russian green, "Nigger" head brown, plum (or prune or grape), and navy. Black will be more popular than ever.

In silk fabrics there will be many brilliant hues, including geranium and flag, also many bright novelty effects.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

By Thornton W. Burgess

It was very plain to see that Old Man Coyote had quite lost his appetite. It was very clear that he wasn't thinking about his stomach just then, but about his legs and how fast they could go. He had been half way up the hill when he first saw the terrible creature without head, tail, or legs rolling down straight at him. He stopped only long enough for one good look and then he started for the bottom of the hill as fast as he could make his legs go. Now, it is a very bad plan to run down hill. Yes, sir, it is a very bad plan. You see, once you are started it is not the easiest thing in the world to stop. And then again you are quite likely to stub your toes.

This is what Old Man Coyote did. He stubbed his toes and turned a complete somersault. He looked so funny that the little scamps watching him had all they could do not to keep from shouting right out. Old Granny Fox and Reddy Fox, watching from a safe distance, did laugh. You know they had not been friendly with Old Man Coyote since he came to live on the Green Meadows, and as they themselves had a terrible fright when they first saw the strange creature they rejoiced in seeing him frightened.

But Old Man Coyote didn't stop for a little thing like a tumble. Oh, my, no! He just rolled over on to his feet and was off again harder than before. Then there are very few people who can see behind them without turning their heads as Peter Rabbit can, and Old Man Coyote is not one of them. Trying to watch behind him, he didn't see where he was going and the next thing he knew he ran bump into—guess who! Why, Buster Bear, to be sure! Where Buster had come from nobody knew, but there he was as big as life. When Old Man Coyote ran into him Buster growled a deep, provoked growl and whirled around with one big paw raised to cuff whoever had so nearly upset him. Old Man Coyote, more frightened than ever, yelped and ran harder than before, so that by the time Buster Bear saw who it was who had run into him he was safely out of reach and still running.

Then it was that Buster Bear first saw the strange creature rolling down the hill which had so frightened Old Man Coyote. Unc' Billy Possum, Jimmy Skunk, Sammy Jay, Peter Rabbit, and Mrs. Peter, watching from safe hiding places, wondered if Buster would run, too. If he did it would be almost too good to be true. But he didn't. He looked first at the strange creature rolling down the hill, then at Old Man Coyote running as hard as ever he could, and his shrewd, little eyes began to twinkle. Then he began to laugh.

"Ha, ha, ha! Ho, ho, ho! Ha ha, ho! I see you are up to your old tricks, Prickly Porky!" he shouted as the strange creature rolled past almost over his toes and brought up against a little tree at the foot of the hill.

Old Man Coyote heard him and stopped short and turned to see what it meant. Very slowly the strange creature unrolled and turned over. There was a head now and a tail and four legs. It was none other than Prickly Porky himself! There was no doubt about it, though he still looked very strange, for he was covered with dead leaves, which clung to the thousand little spears hidden in his coat. Prickly Porky grinned.

"You shouldn't have given me away, Buster Bear, just because you have seen me roll down the hill before. I am not Great Woods where we both came from," said he.

"I think it was high time I did," replied Buster Bear, still chuckling. "You might have scared somebody to death down here where they don't know you."

Then everybody came out of their hiding places laughing and talking all at once, as they told Buster Bear of the joke they had played on Old Man Coyote and how it had all grown out of the fright Peter Rabbit had received when he just happened along as Prickly Porky was rolling down hill just for fun. As for Old Man Coyote, he sneaked away, grinding his teeth angrily. Like a great many other people, he couldn't take a joke on himself.

Summer Bargains in the Shops

The summer shops are full of bargains, if you only know how to find them. One that ought to interest the woman who likes dainty tea things is a sale of cake or sandwich baskets. They range in price from 50 cents to several dollars. They are made of split bamboo, stained mahogany color, and they have an overhead handle by which they can be firmly grasped. The cake plate, which can be bought separately, is slipped into the basket.

• • •

A nest of seven bowls, in white and blue earthenware, costs 85 cents. The largest of the bowls is ten or twelve inches across the top and the smallest is three or four. They can be put in the over so they are useful for pudding dishes and dishes to hold scalloped potatoes or macaroni au gratin.

• • •

Body puffs that suggest warm-weather comfort are made of the soles of slippers. The lamb's wool with which slipper soles, that can be bought for 25 or 30 cents in the shops, are faced is indeed pleasant as a powderpuff. These puffs ready made sell for 65 cents. The leather side of the sole is covered with silk, and there is a little elastic, ribbon-covered strap through which the hand slips.

• • •

A folding bath tub for a baby costs $5. It is made of rubber, on a collapsible wooden frame. There is a little faucet in the bottom through which water is drawn after the bath is over. Along one side is a nickel bar to hold towels. A rubber tubing can be attached to the faucet so that the water can be carried to one of these tubs without difficulty. It can be folded up to pack in a suit case.

• • •

A night lamp is sold for 50 cents. It is made of brass, nickel-plated, and hangs on the wall. It burns with a low, steady light and on one filling of kerosene will burn for about forty hours. It is a very good night lamp for a hall. If it is fastened securely to the wall there is virtually no chance of upsetting it.

• • •

There are some very interesting bracelets that are sold for $2 each. They are made of silver, engraved and finished in a dull finish and they are so made that one end slides over the other so that the bracelet can be pulled out and slipped over the hand, and then pushed together securely.

• • •

A new silver toilet case sells for $6. It looks almost the shape of an old-fashioned hand bag, but, of course, it is small. It is about four inches long and two inches thick and three or four inches high. There is a little handle on top and each side opens to disclose a most interesting compartment filled with dainty toilet accessories—powder, manicure implements, etc. There is also, on one side, a small change purse.

New necklaces from Paris may attract the attention of the young girl who is interested in everything new. They are made of large, bright beads strung on a colored silk cord at regular intervals and as a sort of pendant in front they have a little mosaic in colored glass set in a metal frame. They cost only $2, so it will be seen that they are not exquisitely made, but they give a bright spot of color when they are worn with a white morning blouse and skirt.

Study Marriage Laws to Prevent Divorce

Mrs. C. C. Rhodus

(Special Correspondence.)

CHICAGO, Ill.—Believing that if prospective brides were compelled to read the marriage contract before they sign it there would be fewer divorces, Mrs. Charlotte C. Rhodus, president of the woman's party of Cook county, suggests that all laws relating to the marriage contract be assembled in pamphlet form and presented to each bride before a marriage license is issued.

"Upon signing any other contract than the marriage contract," says Mrs. Rhodus, "the law requires that the contracting parties shall swear they read the instrument and understand its provisions. When the marriage contract is taken as seriously as a sale of real estate we will have fewer divorces."

Matinee Party to Visitor

Mrs. Guy B. Ayer was hostess at a matinee party Tuesday afternoon at the Forsyth theater in compliment to Mrs. T. M. Bryan, of Miami, Fla., the guest of Mrs. John R. Ellis and Mrs. Gerald Smith, of New York City.

The guests included Mrs. Bryan, Mrs. John Ellis, Mrs. Gerald Smith, Mrs. Marion Benson, Mrs. C. J. O'Hagan and Mrs. Charles Tidwell.

Mrs. Alston to Entertain Club

Mrs. Ott Alston will entertain the members of her bridge club Thursday afternoon at the Capital City Country club.

Banish the "Blues!"

If you have that depressed feeling it's more than likely that your blood is out of order—impoverished or poisoned.

There is only one thing that will alter your present condition—that's to restore your stomach to normal health and strength. For a weak or diseased stomach cannot make good blood. If your digestion is bad your food will not make the good blood which nourishes body, brain, heart and nerve.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

helps the stomach to do its work naturally and properly. Stimulates the liver. The system is freed from poison. The blood is purified. Every organ is rejuvenated. Instead of the "Blues," you feel fit and strong, equal to any task or up to any pleasure.

This great remedy has proved its worth year after year for over forty years. Let it prove its worth to you. Sold by medicine dealers in tablet or liquid form or send 50c for trial box by mail.

TEETHINA RELIEF FOR TEETHING BABIES

Teethina (Teething Powders) is the original prescription of Dr. C. J. Moffett, a graduate of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, and used by him for over 40 years most successfully for babies' ailments.

TEETHINA—(Teething Powders)

Usually the second summer is the time for extra precaution to guard baby's health and progress because teething usually brings on many disorders of the system, such as dysentery, diarrhoea, colic, worms, etc., which make teething hard. Teethina regulates the bowels and corrects the entire system. Makes teething easy for the babe, prevents feverishness and restlessness and relieves the mother of worry, sights of anxiety and sleeplessness, and often saves the life of the child. Sold by druggists—25c. If your druggist cannot supply you do not send us any money but write us your druggist's name and we will see that you are supplied.

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

PARIS, Sept. 1.—Whatever may be said of the probable autumn popularity of the cloth cape, it seems quite certain that the winter will bring forth many fur capes.

The indications seem to be now that the cape has been overdone. It has been so much worn that we are tired of it. The war may bring it back into favor. A cape is a decidedly warlike garment, and women may cling to it for that reason.

But as for the fur cape, it is certainly evident as early models and it will probably continue through the winter. There were predictions last winter that the cape would be the accepted fur garment this year, ofr even then it was worn, usually in a diminutive form that reached just to the shoulders; and that diminutive cape was taken as an indication of a more substantial cape in the future.

The capes already shown are varied in shape. Some of them are long, reaching almost to the hem of the skirt, cut on generous, circular lines. Some are of hip length, held about the waist by broad straps that cross over the chest and fasten at the back. Others suggest a shawl, with a deep point in the back. Evening capes of fur are lined with printed silks in gay colors.

Monkey Fur Again.

The monkeys of Africa must view the fashion for their fur with disapproval. They are a scarce breed, these fur-bearing monkeys, and for years they have been unmolested save by the savage warriors that fringed their shields with monkey fur. But now fashion has chosen the monkey as one of her pets, just as she did some twenty odd years ago.

The fur is used generally in the form of a fringe, although some muffs and collars in monkey are shown and will doubtless be carried later. But it is as a fringe of black that monkey adorns the new frocks and hats.

One striking evening frock of pink satin showed a long tunic of pink net edged with monkey, and a collar of beaded net with a broad fringe of the same fur. Sometimes, too, it is combined with velvet. And many of the late summer hats, of white satin, show a band of black monkey fur around the crown.

Fur Trimming of Frocks.

As a trimming for house and evening frocks, fur reaches its most interesting phase.

It is used to border long tunics and it is used to border skirts and sleeves, collars and cuffs. Sometimes it forms the shoulder straps of an evening frock of chiffon or net and touches of it are used on chiffon and lace blouses.

A rather new idea is this. A serge frock, with the usual rather low neck line in front—cut, as it happens, in a V. A tulle ruff, of the Bernhadt type, that flares up over the chin, fastened to a narrow band of fur that encircles the throat and is itself fastened to the neck of the frock at the back. The result is a chin covered with tulle, a throat banded with fur, and below that a V-shaped bit of neck and chest before one comes to the serge frock.

WEDDINGS

Morris-Bridwell

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Mims announce the marriage of their granddaughter, Miss Fay Adelle Bridwell, to Mr. Early Morris. The wedding took place Saturday evening, August 22. Rev. L. O. Bricker officiated.

Miller-Teasley

One of the prettiest weddings of the past week was that of Miss Teresa Frances Teasley and Mr. James Trimble Miller, which was solemnized on August 22 at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Selman on North Boulevard.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Miller left for a trip east, and while away will visit Northfield, Mass. Upon their return they will take possession of their new home in East Point.

Making Clear The Way For Women To Choose New Suits and Dresses

September the first!

You would hardly need a calender to tell you the date did you visit the Ready-to-Wear Section.

The big cases are filling up, the new life of a new season is in the air. Vacations are over, things are ready.

Ready, the word fits conditions most aptly.

It is no longer a question of what will the styles be, but what are the styles.

The Way Is Clear--You May See What the Styles Are

Suits Hundreds and hundreds of them, chosen from makers who measure up to the mark that Dame Fashion sets. What are they?

They are, in a word, becoming!

There are long coats and there are short coats, there are coats that are very plain, and there are others that are very elaborately trimmed; there are skirts with wide tunics but narrow at the ankle, there are other wide, flaring (comparatively) skirts.

The display is something to see, not to be told of—and show us the woman who will not be interested in seeing the many new ideas the display brings!

The Dresses The dress fashions are so radically different from those we have had for several seasons that women are certain to be captivated.

They are new!

But rather than emphasize the novelty of things we would impress the variety of dresses we have ready right now.

Serge Dresses, Satin Dresses For Street and Afternoon Wear

And they are charming! Well, there is much in store for those who will take this as a friendly nudge to be up and doing!

We Shall Dispose of Certain Odd-ments in the Junior Department (Third Floor) Tomorrow

Children's Dresses At Half

Little white dresses, voiles, batistes and an odd one of pique and crepe; usually all white, sometimes with a colored girdle or a bit of colored embroidery. Sizes two, three, four and five years. Low necks, short sleeves, as a rule. Now $1.00 to $5.00, instead of $2.00 to $10.00.

Children's Coats At Half

Splendid to begin the season with, in fact, to last long into the season.

A rack full of them, serges, mixtures, novelties, in sizes two to fourteen years. About every color is represented, but not in every size. Now $3.00 to $7.50, instead of $6.00 to $15.00.

Boys' Wash Suits at 79c

They were $1.00 to $1.50, in sizes, two to six years. Buster Brown styles, percales and ginghams, in striped patterns.

The way of the reservist is hard.

Most of us are now convinced that war is no lawn party.

All Germany is divided in three parts—the kaiser and the eastern and western armies.

About the only argument the Progressives can now use is that Colonel Roosevelt must be kept in the limelight.

The Forts of Paris.

Reports of fighting in the vicinity of La Fere and Guise, about sixty miles from Paris, suggest that the Germans may soon be within striking distance of the French capital. It is one thing, however, to invest the city, and quite another to take it. In 1870-71, under the most cheerless and racking conditions, Paris held back the Prussian forces from September the nineteenth to January the twenty-eighth. She was poorly provisioned, far from well fortified, and in every way unprepared for a long siege; moreover, she had no comfort or aid from foreign friends. Today she is taking strong and timely measures of precaution. Abundant supplies are being laid in, troops from the south are being hurried to the defense and placed to the best advantage, and as her enemy moves forward it will have to reckon no doubt with the british in the rear.

German military experts a few years ago described Paris as "the greatest fortress in the world." The city has three encircling chains of defense. The two inner rings date back to the time of Louis Philippe. The outer works, constructed after the Franco-Prussian war, comprise an entrenched camp of some seventy-five miles in circumference. The innermost fortifications have ninety-three bastions, sixty-seven gates and nine railway passages. These, however, are of less importance, than the outlying ring of forts, once detached but now strongly linked. Of the latter, an authority writes: "Each is designed as a miniature fortress. On the north side there are three forts, connected by a plain parapet, around St. Denis, one of these being arranged to control an inundation. Next to the right, or eastward, comes Fort Aubervillers, which commands the approaches north of the wood of Bondy. These four works lie on relatively low ground. The eastern works are situated on higher ground; they consist of four forts and various small redoubts, and command the approaches from the great wood of Bondy. On the west side of Paris is the famous fortress of Mont Valerien, standing five hundred and thirty-six feet above the sea and about four hundred and fifty feet above the river." There are other defenses on the south side of the city. These inner lines are strengthened by two groups of works, noteworthy among which are the Chatillon fort and batteries, "which now prevent access to the celebrated plateau that overlooks Paris from a height of six hundred feet, and of which the rear batteries sweep almost the whole of the ground between Bicetre and Mont Valerien."

It is estimated that an army attempting to invest Paris would have to be at least five hundred thousand strong, "irrespective of all field and covering forces," while the defense would require fewer than two hundred thousand men, "apart from troops temporarily collected in the fortified area." The great entrenched camp, surrounding the city and the works already noted, is divided into three sections—the north, east and the southwest. Reference to the diagram printed by The Journal yesterday will show a number of the important defenses and their general plan of arrangement. Of these forts, Henri De Blowitz, the famous Anglo-French journalist, said:

"They have from twenty-four to sixty heavy guns, and six hundred to twelve hundred men each; the redoubts, batteries and annex batteries generally have two hundred men and six guns. In the northern section a ridge crosses the northern extremities of the St. Germain-Argenteuil loop of the Seine after the fashion of the armature of a horseshoe magnet; on this ridge, about five hundred and sixty feet, is a group of works, named after the village of Cormeilles, commanding the lower Seine, the Argenteuil peninsula and the lower ground towards the Oise. At an average distance of five miles from St. Denis lie the works of the Montlignon-Domont position which sweep all ground to the north, cross their fire with the Cormeilles works and deny the plateau of Montmoreney-Mery-Sur-Oise to an enemy. At Ecouen, on an isolated hill are a fort and a redoubt, and to the right, near these, are Fort Stains and two batteries on the ceinture railway. The important eastern section consists of the Vaujours position, the salient of the whole fortress, which commands the countryside to the north as far as Dammartin and Claye, crosses its fire with Stains on the one hand and Villiers on the other, and itself lies on a steep hill at the outer edge of the forest of Bondy, a condition which allows free and concealed communication between the fort and the inner line of works. Three miles to the right of Vaujours is Fort Chelles, which bars the roads and railways of the Marne valley. On the other side of the Marne, on ground made historic by the events of 1870, are forts Villiers and Champigny, designed as a bridgehead to enable the defenders to assemble in front of the Marne. To the right of these is a fort near Bosily-St.-Leger, and on the right of the whole section are the armored works of the Villeneuve-St.-Georges position, which command the Seine and Yeres country as far as Brie and Corbeil. The left of the southwestern section is formed by the powerful Fort Palaiseau and its annex batteries which command the Yvette valley. Behind Fort Palaiseau, midway between it and Fort Chatillon, is the Verrieres group, overlooking the valley of the Bievre. To the right of Palaiseau on the high ground towards Versailles are other works, and around Versailles itself is a semi-circle of batteries right and left of the armored Fort St. Cyr. In various sections around Marly, there are some seven or eight batteries."

If the Paris of 1870, fighting against starvation as well as arms, taken by surprise and hopeless of succor from foreign quarters, could withstand a siege more than four months, it is scarcely to be expected that the Paris of 1914, well provisioned, marvelously well fortified and supported in the field by a British ally, will surrender without prolonged and mighty resistance.

The German forces apparently have made progress much to the credit of their prowess and skill, but there may be a deal of fighting before they are near the Parisian outposts. In fact a siege is by no means yet certain. If it comes, it will be met as stubbornly as it pressed; and even if it finally succeeds, it will not decide the great issue of the war.

They might be termed the Rushin' soldiers.

Maybe if the war would end, baseball would regain its old-time popularity.

The farmer must make up his mind to listen to a lot of advice from now on.

Those returning American tourists who have any money left will find it is good in America.

The irony of the situation is that the balmy autumn season is fine for war operations.

Villa's Good Work.

In spite of predictions that he would be a source of discord and danger, General Villa is making himself distinctly useful to Mexico. His latest service, rendered in company with General Obregon, was to settle a factional dispute in the State of Sonora. Both sides of that controversy had been extremely stubborn, and there were fears of an outbreak that might plunge a large region of the country into war.

Villa went forward as peacemaker, rather a strange role for the rough-and-tumble warrior. And he proved as successful in diplomacy as he had in battle. It is not improbable that he employed "shirt-sleeve" diplomacy, but he seems to have satisfied the disputants, and he left with the wholesome warning that if they sought to make further trouble, he would march in with a regiment or two and take charge of them bodily.

The important fact is that Villa has thus far conducted himself and his followers in the interest of his country's welfare. What his future course may be is beyond certain prediction. He may be nursing ambitions which later may incite him to reckless adventures. He may hold deep grudges against Carranza, and in time seek to even them up. The Constitutionalists who have stood together wonderfully well may yet fall apart and lose their great opportunity for service.

But up to the present, Villa has shown no such weakness. On the contrary he has discouraged the trouble makers, and has adhered closely to the idea that there must be peace and order, if Mexico is to work out its freedom and salvation.

It is suspected, if not actually known, that the same interests which tried to plunge the United States into Mexican intervention months ago have recently tried to bring dissension into the ranks of the Constitutionalists. But those schemes thus far are futile. The great task of restoring normal government has moved forward apace. The mass of the people as well as the leaders seem desirous of tranquility. Mexico's condition is more hopeful than it has been for many a season.

Some people could write all they know on a post card.

A mean rich man may jolly himself into thinking that his means justify his meanness.

Having lived during the greatest war in history is a distinction that most of us would be willing to postpone.

The city chap who imagines he could get rich raising chickens on a two-acre farm may be perfectly sane on all other subjects.

Editorial Echoes

By the advice, not always followed, it is to be feared, of his physician, President Wilson started for New Hampshire, yesterday. It is his first vacation this summer; yet he consents to it for only five days or so. His unsparing devotion to his duties is too familiar to be praised. It is taken as an essential quality of the man. But after so long a course of it, after so many anxieties and a great grief, and with a host of new perplexities thick around him, a little tenderness to his constitution, a truce of his labors, is as necessary as deserved.—New York Sun.

The Journal's Letter Box

A Plea for Fair Play.

Editor The Journal: On account of the highly sensational information which has come to the American people criticising the German emperor particularly, and the German people in general, as being the cause of the present frightful war in Europe, and on account of lack of cable communications whereby the German government could explain to our people publicly, the causes which led to the declaration of war, there seems to be a growing disposition among our people to criticise Germany for its action in connection with the present war. Germany has but one cable connection with this country. This crossed the Azores Islands, under the British control and on declaration of war, was immediately cut by them, leaving Germany isolated as far as telegraphic communication is concerned, from this country. On the other hand, all the news dispatches have been dated either London, Paris, St. Petersburg and Nish, Servia, and whatever passes the strict censorship that is being now imposed on war news, is highly colored, sensational and in many instances, absolutely untrue.

To intelligently understand the causes that led up to this war one must know something of European history and conditions which have existed in Europe politically for the last forty years. Ever since the defeat of the French by the Germans in the war of 1871, when Alsace and Loraine were seized by the Germans and a war indemnity of five thousand million francs was exacted and paid, the French have looked forward to the day when they could successfully avenge themselves upon their neighbors on the other side of the Rhine. All of these years the statue of Strasburg in Paris has been decorated in mourning, and only when the French troops marched recently into Alsace-Lorraine has this decoration been removed. Now that they have retreated again, possibly the decoration will be replaced. The object of France, therefore, is one purely of revenge and they have bided their time to fight at the opportune moment.

On the eastern boundary is Russia, that great country of half-civilized, illiterate and down-trodden people and surrounded by a court full of intrigue, dishonesty, fanaticism and brutality. Russia has long dreamt of a Pan-Slavistic movement which would join to it the Danubian provinces and the Slavic population of the dual monarchy of Austria-Hungary. With this end in view it has encouraged agitation which would tend to break up the Austria-Hungary monarchy and join Czech and slave population of these countries to Servia and ultimately bring them under Russian protection—this would also mean the crushing of Turkey and the opening of the Dardanelles to Russia. Germany has strongly interposed its strong hand against such nefarious act of Russia, and fought its unholy ambition. Therein can be found the principal cause of Russia's envy and enmity of the German empire, which is growing daily in strength, wealth and influence.

With England the causes are entirely different. It is a case of German national prosperity interferring with England's position as the first power on the seas, causing commercial jealousy, which compelled England to ally itself, with its friends of yore, but with its old-time enemies, the French and Russians. It is an unnatural alliance of the English, who are of Anglo-Saxon stock, the same as the Germans, to fight side by side with Slav and the French people. The object of this triple entente being not so much their own protection as the ultimate defeat and downfall of the German empire.

Secretly urged by the approval and infuence of the Russian government, the Servian government, notorious for its lack of culture, development and progress among civilized people, has continually and persistently encouraged the Pan-Slavic agitators to create trouble in Hungary for Austria, and even went so far as to furnish, through its officials, the bombs and pistols which were used by the murderers of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife. To murder those in authority whom they oppose is not an uncommon thing in the kingdom of Servia. The present King Peter owes his crown to the murder of King Milan and his wife in a most barbarous and dastardly manner several years ago, and his oldest son compelled to renounce his right of succession on account of a murderous attempt upon his father's life. Austria gave its word that the declaration of war was only punitive as far as Servia was concerned and that they did not intend to annex any Servian territory. In spite of this the czar of Russia, who was continually invoking the aid and mediation of Germany to prevent a war, had secretly and with the connivance of his generals, ordered a general mobilization of the Russian army. This species of duplicity is clearly shown in the annexed copies of telegrams which passed between Emperor William and the czar of Russia prior to the declaration of war. These telegrams, which are authentic and copied from the White Paper issued by the German government, they explain the causes up to August 1, make very interesting matter and throw an entirely new light phase on the situation. I believe that every fair-minded, unbiased American who reads these telegrams will see at once that it was not Germany that provoked the war, but France and Russia, Russia primarily, France secondarily, then England, because of the advantages which would come in the defeat of Germany, its commercial rival. In all fairness, therefore, we of German and Irish descent can ask our American brethren to ascertain both sides of the controversy before they criticise and condemn, and if they will do so with a fair-minded and open spirit, they will place the blame where it belongs—that is on Russia and France.

I do not pose as a prophet, but I predict that the German army will be in Paris before the end of this year, and when the future historians write of this terrible combat, Germany will surely be absolved of the initial blame for same.

Very truly yours,
V. H. KRIEGSHABER.

Dr. Crane's New Field of Service

Dr. Frank Crane, one of the most interesting figures in American Journalism, has entered a new field of endeavor, and strangely enough, it has nothing to do with writing, although it has a great deal to do with art and education. He has become secretary of the Church and School Social Service Bureau which has been organized to put motion pictures in the schools and churches of the United States. Dr. Crane's work will be of a unique character, but mostly will have to do with looking after much of the field work which will have to be done to make the enterprise a success.

The Church and School Social Service Bureau was organized by Dr. William Carter last summer and already is a going concern. It is allied with the Duke of Manchester's International Education league and will have the benefit of the facilities which the league, through its world-wide ramifications, will have to offer.

In his new position, Dr. Crane will be associated with the Duke of Manchester, who is international vice president of the Church and School Social Service Bureau; Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, who is the national vice president, and many big men in the educational and religious fields of endeavor throughout the United States.

Dr. Crane was born at Urbana, Ill., in 1861, and was ordained in the Methodist Episcopal ministry in 1882. A Reno man tells of a murder trial in Nevada, wherein the defendant, formerly a barber, had been condemned to death. Just before the pronouncement of sentence the judge said to him:

"I should like," said the prisoner, "once more to be allowed to shave the district attorney."—Harper's Magazine.

Goldberg's Adventures In War Torn Europe

BY RUBE GOLDBERG.

I am sitting on the wharf at Havre, France, with no very definite idea of what I am going to do with it. My clothes are in Paris. The few odds and ends that help to put me outside the range of Anthony Comstock's wrath were gathered from the wardrobe of a French peasant who was too busy saying good-by to his wife to shoot me down as a looter.

As I slowly and carefully sponge off the celluloid collar that fits me better around the waist than the neck, and with which I expect to hide the abject poverty that has been thrust upon me by the gods of war, I mingle with the thousands of other unfortunate Americans who are waiting to be taken back to the land where you can walk into a restaurant, order a dish of ham and eggs, and get ham and eggs.

As I gaze at the improvised fancy vest, which only a few days ago did service as a pillow case in my hotel, it all comes back to me in forceful reality.

How, while going for my mail on the Rue Scribe, an excited countryman rushed up and told me that Austria-Hungary has declared war on Servia. Baron Whosis sent a note to the Servian legislature or house of congress or committee of arrangements or board of directors and told them in a few words that he was peeved at the way the Servians neglected to include Bruntian Dubrovitch in their daily routine of food. The note was returned in a short time to the Baron, saying that the committee was very sorry to inform him that it was busy playing pool.

So the Baron said: "Well, I'll declare war. You're it!"

I was mildly interested. I asked my informer who had been selected to write the music. I stepped into a cigar store in the Boulevard des Capucines and bought a smoke. I tendered the proprietor behind the county a 50-franc note. She immediately burst into the last act of Tosca—with gestures. I assured her I had no intention of offering her any financial inducement to leave home, but she would not be pacified.

As I walked for a few minutes to come and drag me off to the Bastile, a charitable Frenchman who had learned his English from a London time table told me the French shopkeepers were not changing any paper money. They were hanging on to their gold and silver. Governmont paper was not worth anything in time of war.

"But Austria and Servia are only having a private twenty-round bout," I declared. "France is not at war!"

"Sure he is," answered my English-speaking French friend, "and so is England and Germany and Russia and Italy and Belgium and Turkey and the Malay Peninsula and Montenegro and Mount Vesuvius and Count Zeppelin and all the rest of the uncivilized world!"

When the spots passed from before my eyes I bought a copy of Figaro from a newsboy who had served in the war of 1870. With the help of a French-English dictionary and the little French I had picked up fighting with taxicab drivers, I understood.

There it was in black and white—and red. The whole map was about to be torn to pieces in a conflict such as has never been recorded in ancient or modern history.

Baron Whosis gets up on the wrong side and the whole world goes to war. That cannot be possible. That's why I know it is true!

But why?

In front of the Cafe de la Paix I saw a man with a pair of pants that were too close to his shoes and a collar that was too far away from his neck, standing in the center of a group of South Bend school teachers explaining the situation in a few well-chosen words.

"You see," he was explaining, "Servia is a Slav kingdom under the protection of her great-grandmother, Russia. France is bound to England and Rhode Island by the Treaty of Something-or-other.

"Now, Germany, Austria, Switzerland and Egypt are pledged to stand together by the triple alliance. So, naturally, in view of the fact that China and Denmark would be adjacent if Sweden were closer to Japan, everybody must fight everybody else when Austria calls a messenger boy and sends a hastily-written note to Servia."

I was never very good in extracting cube roots, so I took his word for it. Why should I excite myself needlessly about a lot of foreign countries who thought it was about time their soldiers went to work? They had taken vacations ranging from one to twenty years and should be well rested and fit for action.

I was going back to the Polo grounds and the one-step halls in a few days and the pillars of my tranquility could not be so easily shaken.

I glanced toward my bank in the Place de l'Opera. The entrance was black with people. I asked a cab driver if he had run over anybody. He said "No," but he would if I stuck around until he could draw his money out of the bank.

Something drew me into that crowd in front of the bank. I don't know whether it was the forward end of an automobile or the tensional strength of the odor of garlic.

After having my features rearranged from the ancient Corinthian to the more modern Louis XIV, and sharing my necktie and part of my shirt with seven other men of doubtful nationality, I reached the cashier's desk. I thought I was as far as he was going down for the last time, and succeeded in extracting $92 which was charged to my letter of credit as $100. It cost me $8 in exchange, but when the war was over, when I figured out how many bowls of chili con carne that $8 shortage on my letter of credit would buy, I began to realize the awful significance of war.

But let us pause and draw the veil and envy our fortunate tailor sitting over there on his nice comfortable work bench with twenty or thirty other button mechanics perspiring the free and wholesome perspiration of peace before we continue to live over the thrills of our first and, we hope, our last face to face experience with old man War himself.

TRAVELETTE

BY NIKSAR.

XXXI.

Edinburgh, ancient capital of Scotland and the most beautiful and romantic city of the British empire, is crowned by a wonderful fort called "The Castle."

The towering hill that rises precipitously from the very main streets of the town is capped with a fortification of stone that dates, in part, back to the tenth century. In its thousand years of history it has never been taken by assault, although more than once it has changed hands as the result of strategem or treachery.

On its highest wall, looking down the Firth of Forth toward the North sea there is a huge basket of iron bars. It is an ancient beacon, and a fire lighted in it is a signal to the countryside that a foreign foe is about to invade the country.

It has not been lighted for more than two centuries, not since the French were threatening to come into Britain to restore the Stewarts to the throne.

It has not been lighted for more shrdl uunupp Will that beacon soon burn again?

In this castle is preserved Mons Meg, the oldest piece of artillery in the world—a huge iron tube that hurled stone balls at the enemy.

Here Mary Queen of Scots gave birth to that son James who was to unite England and Scotland under one scepter, and from a window of her room the infant James was let down in a basket over a precipice that he might be baptized in secret in the Roman Catholic faith.

And here are the ancient crown jewels of Scotland, that elder Scotland of Bruce and Wallace, that were discovered by Sir Walter Scott after they had been lost for nearly 200 years.

It is a wonderful castle, and hoary with history. It is possible that the fortress that never yielded to terrestial assault will be vanquished from out the sky?

How the War Affects Us

VIII.—LACE AND THINGS.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

There is to be a dearth in the irresistible filmy, sea-foam, frou-frou things which women wear to the everlasting improvement of our dun-gray, practical age. These delightful frills of European manufacture are being turned out no more since the outbreak of the super-war. In their stead, labor will be employed in the production of lint, absorbent cotton, linen bandages, and other sternly sensible and sanitary coverings for human nakedness.

* * *

Laces, artificial silks, fringes, beadwork, and delicate novelty patterns in dress goods are for the most part made in European factories. Those laces which billow ripple, fold and surge in a bewilderment of graceful unrest are only made abroad. American laces are obvious and definite. On the other hand, it is the European lace which clothes with an intangible softness and concealment. Europe is the home of those industries whose products are solely for the embellishment of life.

* * *

Great quantities of lace are produced in this country, both of the hand-made and machine varieties. The home-made article, however, is confined to the coarser types. It preserves its adorn, but lacks the entirely charm of the more subtle foreign laces. The American machine-made lace industry is of comparatively recent origin. It has made remarkable strides and has developed a successful competition with Europe in our markets for the sale of embroideries and laces and insertions of quantity production.

* * *

There has not been time yet, however, to create here the large corps of skillful and artistic lace designers such as stands ready to the command of the European producers. This, likely, explains a large part of our backwardness. Every European lace town of any note has its families of designers, whose devotion to this art stretches generations back. Moreover, in such lace and embroidery centers as Plauen and Calais the school of lace design is the central institution of the city's life. In these towns the art of "bobbin-lace" has mellowed in its traditions, high standards have grown up, and taste and skill have become part of the workaday atmosphere.

* * *

Then, too, the European centers have the advantage of a wealth of secret processes, accretions of scores of years of study and application in communities whose prosperity depended almost entirely on this industry. The foreign producers claim that we could not properly finish many of their most successful kinds of laces even were we able to originate their designs and to weave or embroider them upon our looms. In many cases, probably, these claims of defective finish in imitations have often proved themselves dismal failures.

* * *

The lace machine is one of the most delicate human machines on earth. Its variety of production is almost alone limited by the fertility of the designer's imagination. Chantilly, Point d'Alencon, Spanish, Cluny, Torchon, Valenciennes, Bruges, Malines, Macrame, Appliqué and thousands of derivative laces are imitated in perfect detail upon these machines. Colors are freely worked on them with gold and other brilliant metal strands and shimmery silver. All the famous lace genre are turned out in rapid production by machinery.

* * *

These machines are made in Europe. They are built in Plauen, Saxony, in St. Gall, Switzerland, in Calais, France, and in Nottingham, England. Those four cities are the headquarters for machine-made lace and machinery. Not only is America largely dependent upon them for her finished finery but, also, for the machines with which to carry on her home production. Plauen is the home of the "broderies," or etched laces, little made in this country, and for other embroidered laces. St. Gall furnishes a part of machine-embroidered white goods. Woven laces and lace novelties are made in Calais, while Nottingham is the home of machine-made curtains and other woven laces.

* * *

America is a good customer of these goods, wherewith to brighten up the dull prose of a business age by infusing into it the glow and gossamer of woman's dress. The brick and plaster, the smoke, the lovely smoke and sleek slovency of the modern city's street is only kept from becoming quite insufferable by the sparkle and artistry of well-dressed women.

* * *

The importation of these decorative articles has mounted into substantial yearly sums. In 1913, Germany sent to us $908,179 worth of bead ornaments, $7,-$49,208 worth of cotton laces and embroideries, $1,-$16,939 worth of artificial feathers and flowers, and more than a million dollars worth of other laces, that is, of silk and linen. Switzerland sent us laces and embroideries to the value of $10,680,078. From France, we took $521,292 worth of bead ornaments, $7,987,624 worth of cotton laces and embroideries, $3,800,000 worth of natural and artificial feathers and $3,584,467 worth of other laces. From England, we took $7,238,-$80 worth of laces and nearly a million dollars worth of artificial silk. We, also, imported considerable quantities of lace from Austro-Hungary, Italy, and other countries. Thus, we paid $40,000,000 yearly for lace alone from the four great lace-producing countries, Germany, Switzerland, France and England.

* * *

Many of the novelty dress goods patterns, delicate tracings, veinings and figures in colors, metal threads, and in artificial silks which serve to cheer our streets, our homes and places of public gathering are produced in the mills of Germany and France, and are dyed and finished according to secret processes of the French and Germans. The quality of the colors and the texture of these goods are often beyond the imitation of modern manufacturers and their excellence is not to be attained by us without years of study and experiment.

* * *

The textile industry abroad is old and full of practice. The manufacturers there have been put upon their mettle to retain their export markets. Their export of the regular grades of cloth to this country was for a long time nearly impossible on account of our high protective tariff. Their market for similar goods in the United States has been enlightened by the recent beginnings of powerful textile industries in Japan and China. It remained, then, for them to hold fast upon their market for specialties by the continual development of new patterns of exquisite novelties, and of indimitable colorings. This the European manufacturers have succeeded in doing, remaking their sample books each year from cover to cover.

* * *

Now that Europe has become a maelstrom of destruction, its lace factories and textile mills will shut down, while the designers, the embroiderers, the weavers and the finishers of these products are busied in meeting other and killing demands. The borders of America will likely be deprived of the greater part of its annual $50,000,000 worth of imported lace, and its sundry other millions of dollars worth of highly finished textiles. This, of course, will lose by the way 10 cents worth of lace for every man, woman and child in the country, and unreckonable amounts of satisfaction by the absence of its adorning cheer around us.

* * *

However, this outlook may be much darker than is justified. American business men have been actively engaged through the past score of years in transplanting as much of the foreign lace industry to this country as possible. Here and there, as learned, secret has been incorporated into our lace plants, and the output of these concerns has been steadily becoming bolder in meeting European competition. Capable employes and skilled designers have been brought over. The latest obtainable European machines have been procured. The lace making industry in the United States today has come well through its infancy. This same applies in a greater degree to other branches of the American textile industry.

The necessities of the war may force the American manufacturers to a quick majority. With Germany, France and England out of the running, their strongest competitors are removed. By the time the belligerents cool off, they may find that it does not take so long to learn valuable processes today as it did during the more ruminative times of fifty years ago, and may have occasion to regret that America was given an opportunity to learn to do without them, not only for her highly finished laces, but in a number of other industries.

STEFANSSEN SEARCHING NORTH FOR NEW LAND

Explorer May Not Be Heard From for Two Years, Say Associates

(By Associated Press.)

NOME, Sept. 1.—The gasoline schooner King and Winge, which has arrived here from Point Barrow, Alaska, brought news that Vilhjalmur Stefanssen, the explorer, with two companions set out from Martin Point, east of the mouth of the Barter river March 22 last, with six dogs, a sled and two rifles, heading straight north over the ice in search of new land. A supporting party of three others accompanied Stefanssen for seven days due north on the sea ice and then returned, reaching shore April 16.

Before starting Stefanssen left orders with Dr. Rudolph M. Anderson, his lieutenant in the Canadian government expedition, to establish a camp for him at Banks Land.

Stefanssen may not be heard from for two years, his associates say.

The story of how Ernest de Koven Leffingwell, the Arctic explorer, and Captain Otto Nahenis, a former member of the Stefansson party, had travelled from Flaxman island to Point Barrow in a dory was brought here yesterday from the Arctic.

The perilous journey of the pair required 38 days.

Sprague Brookes, an ornithologist from Harvard university, was reported aboard the revenue cutter Bear. He was a member of the Stefansson party and was picked up at Point Barrow.

The King and Winge brought out the crew of four sailors from the whaler Elvira, which was crushed by the Arctic ice nearly a year ago. The shipwrecked party included W. C. Allis, president of the Arctic Whaling Trading company.

These men were transferred from the steamer whaler Belvedere at Point Barrow after having been cared for aboard since the wrecking of the Elvira, on account of having to keep these men the Belvedere, which was short of provisions, was obliged to abandon the whaling grounds at the height of the season and hasten to Point Barrow to meet the King and Winge.

SEDOFF DIES IN DASH TO REACH NORTH POLE

Members of Party Reaching Archangel Tell of Death of Leader

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 1.—A St. Petersburg dispatch reports that surviving members of the Arctic expedition, headed by Lieutenant Sedoff, which left for the north in 1912, have arrived at Archangel.

The survivors stated that Lieutenant Sedoff died in a vain attempt to reach the north pole. The expedition wintered in 1912 and 1913 in newly discovered territory and later Sedoff proceeded to Franz Josef Land, whence he started for the pole accompanied by two sailors. The leader fell ill on the way and died.

The Russian government sent an expedition to the relief of Lieutenant Sedoff early in 1914 and if it is probable that this expedition effected the rescue of the explorer.

According to Lieutenant Sedoff's plans the expedition on reaching Franz Josef Land was to divide itself in two parts at the beginning of 1913. The polar party, consisting of the lieutenant and two companions was to make a dash for the pole while the other members remained at winter quarters to carry on scientific work.

The first subscription to defray expense of the expedition was $5,000 given by Emperor Nicholas.

Lieutenant Sedoff has been credited with the novel idea of using polar bears to draw his sledges.

G. A. R. OPENS ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT AT DETROIT

(By Associated Press.)

DETROIT, Sept. 1.—It was estimated today that more than 20,000 persons who are members of the G. A. R. or auxiliated body are attending the forty-eighth annual encampment here.

Routine business was transacted this forenoon at committee meetings by the women's national organizations. The Sons of Veterans and the Association of Former Prisoners of War also held sessions. The first public meeting of the G. A. R. will be held tonight. A number of welcoming addresses and responses are on the program. Governor Woodbridge, N. G. Ferris of Michigan, Mayor Oscar B. Marx of Detroit, and Washington Gardner of Albion, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., are among the speakers.

The annual parade will take place tomorrow forenoon.

SITUATION AT BUTTE IS WORRYING THE POPULACE

Militia Mobilized and May Be Ordered Any Moment to Quell Miners

(By Associated Press.)

BUTTE, Mont., Sept. 1.—The populace of Butte awaited with uneasiness today word as to when Governor Stewart would send the militia, mobilized at the state capital, to put down the miners' disturbances here. Leaders of the miners were credited last night with saying that if troops, state or federal, came to Butte, they would reduce themselves on the business men and leave the city in ashes.

According to plans announced last night a committee of forty miners will "fill the original mine of the Anaconda company today to notify miners employed there that they must join the present union, quit or run the risk of being deported.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE TO HANDLE GRAIN CARGOES

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Sir Edward Grey, British foreign secretary, appointed a special committee to deal with all cases involving release of grain cargoes converted to England, Ambassador Page reported today.

BILL AT THE FORSYTH AS SEEN BY JOURNAL CARTOONIST

LYRIC'S GIRL SHOW IS REAL CRACKERJACK; DRAWS A FULL HOUSE

Forsyth Has New Bill; Grand, Some Interesting War Pictures, and Atlanta Keeps "Cabiria" Going Strong

A "girl and music show" with girls who are at once pretty, graceful, lively and well-costumed, and music that is catchy and lyrical, is something you seldom see, but a packed house saw it in "Zallah's Own Company," at the Lyric Monday night and approved to the extent of continual applause.

Zallah opened the year's season for the Carnegie Way playhouse, the first show booked here in the Columbia circuit of extravaganza which will play Atlanta and other southern cities weekly throughout the fall and winter. If other Columbia shows are the equal of Zallah's the Lyric will without doubt have the busiest season of its history.

Records were broken with the opening. Nearly every seat was taken, and the management, in accordance with its policy of catering to women and children, had the satisfaction of knowing that a great part of the audience was formed of ladies.

Zallah is in two parts. By the middle of part one, the house, suspending judgment until the show proved its worth, was won and, chuckling at slap-stick comedy, violently applauding each number, encoring song after song, declared its approval of this improved burlesque.

That's not it practically is—burlesque at its best. The scenes are laid in a New York department store and in the Egyptian desert; there is an Irishman and a Dutchman and a tramp; a slim ingenue, a watch-on-the-wrist boy and a fat lady with the best voice in the company. The plot, as usual, was not among those present. Somebody found it toward the last of act one, picked it up for a minute, gave it the twice-over and then hid it under a joke. It was never unearthed again. There is a Spanish song and the Yama-Yama song, the pink tights and the white tights and the brick on the ear; a little patriotic stuff a la Georgie Cohan to ring down the curtain and—Zallah herself.

Zallah appears only in the last part of the last set. She dances an "Oriental dance." The dance is nothing to wave flags over, but it is on a par with the rest of the show, no mean praise.

Zallah's own company, in short, is pretty good. The enthusiastic will say it is a minature "Follies," the censorious will frown on certain portions of the show while others are none too proper; others will find that a visit to the Lyric is a good way to kill three hours' time in a pleasant way.

GOOD VAUDEVILLE AT THE FORSYTH.

Animal shows are usually tame affair, one has seen several, but the cleverness of Barnold's dogs and monkeys, at the Forsyth Monday night, gained the interest of every one. The tipsy dog is a rare treat. Other dogs characterizing a Chinaman, a sailor, a sausage-maker, a Scotchman, elopers from mental wrath, a street-cleaner, and a German, were well trained and did not forget their "lines."

Sherman, Van and Hyman—you'll instinctively know which is Hyman—came in for many encores. Their "melange of melodious nonsense" is catching whether you want it at first or not. Van does not have to act—he was born funny.

The reaction of a business man's platitudes upon himself is shown in an interesting little sketch, "A Corner in Wireless," by Dan Bruce, Margo Duffett and Edwin Maynard. In it is shown how to win a pretty girl, and an heiress, and $100,000 as well, all in fifteen minutes. Perfectly simple!

Herman Timberg, late of Gus Edwards' School Days, is the announced headliner. He is billed as the Versatile Comedian, and certainly is all that, for he dances, sings "comedies," plays the violin and does character stunts. His violin playing is best and won for him much applause.

The MacNallys open the bill with a tight rope, tumbling and musical act. They are fair. Ray Largay and Sue Snee, in "R. F. D. No. 9," cracked some new jokes.

Frank Milton and Sisters DeLong, in "Twenty Minutes' Layover at Alfalfa Junction," have been seen here before. They are clever and get many laughs.

Futhe pictures showing dirigibles, airships, and mobilization, incident to the European conflict, wind up the bill.

GOOD WAR MOVIES SHOWN AT GRAND.

Glimpses of the soldiery that is trampling fighting through Europe now were given to the patrons of the Grand Monday in the first presentation of this week's program. Realistic scenes of the armies and navies now at war were thrown on the canvas. Many of them showed the Germans, Kaiser Wilhelm appearing in a number. Manoeuvres by land and sea, suggesting vividly the actual pictures that could be made these days were "movie" cameras permitted near the fighters, are shown in this thrilling succession.

These constitute but a part of the interesting bill, however. Two dramas complete it. "The Murdoch Trial" is thoroughly English in its atmosphere. The plot is built around a renegade friend, a fortune left in his care, a winsome orphan miss, a villianous nephew, and a handsome hero. The renegade friend is slain by his nephew the hero is arrested, tried and convicted, the heroine confesses to save him, and the guilt of the nephew is discovered just as she is about to be hanged.

"Blind Fate" is the other drama. It too has a slaying in it. The blind girl's father is slain for his gold by a fellow miner. She hears the murderer's laugh and feels a broken finger on one of his hands. An operation restores her sight. At a week-end party she hears the cruel laugh and suspects the murderer. She stages an amateur play which so unnerves the murderer that he screams aloud, betraying himself to the vengeance she has arranged with the police.

"CABIRIA" BEGINS SECOND GREAT WEEK AT ATLANTA.

"Cabiria" embarked upon the second week of its successful engagement at the Atlanta theater last night, when two performances were played to packed houses. The picture promises to attain a record of the most prosperous amusement that has ever played a local theater.

Atlanta has gone into ecstacies over the big "Cabiria." It is the talk of the town. One who has never seen it finds it an impossibility to even conceive the staggering immensity of the production. There are countless scenes in the twelve reels of wonderful photography that appear unreal, so impossible does it seem that they could have been staged.

This week will wind up the engagement of "Cabiria."

"Tempest and Sunshine," a dramatization of Mary J. Holmes' popular novel, drew two splendid audiences to the Bijou, and with this play the Jewell Keller company is adding another popular success to its long list of pleasing attractions at the Bijou. The clever work of Rose Morris, Lillian Douglas, Earl Higley, Vernon Wallace, Newton Ross and Charles J. Lammers, was especially noticeable, and the scenic effects were probably the best offered by the Jewell company during their summer season at the Bijou. Judging from the applause and curtain calls that greeted the performance last night, "Tempest and Sunshine" is due for a splendid week's run at the popular Bijou. There will be a matinee every afternoon and evening performance at 8:30.

An Easy Way to Increase Weight

Good Advice for Thin Folks

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; nothing on useless "fresh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

Thanks to a remarkable new scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine in simple form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This masterstroke of modern chemistry is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh builders. Sargol aims through its regenerative, reconstructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to every starved, broken-down cell and tissue of your body. You can readily picture the result when this amazing transformation has taken place and you notice how your cheeks fill out, hollows about your neck, shoulders and bust disappear and you take on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. Jacobs' Pharmacy and other leading druggists of Atlanta and vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

Caution—While Sargol has given excellent results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and stomach troubles it should not be taken by those who do not wish to gain ten pounds or more.—(Advt.)

—Gossard Corsets are in for fall. The bust line is raised a trifle, which successfully takes care of the rather difficult basque style prevailing this fall. Gossard corsets are the first and the best liked of FRONT-LACED corsets. $2 to $25.
(Second Floor.)

—Our first, and probably the last, importation of fine French silk novelties is in. Veritable jewels of the loom; gold and silver tinsel on satin, voiles or chiffons. In floral patterns pretty as nature. $10 to $20 a yard.

—A glimpse of new dresses shows fascinating evening frocks with no sleeves in them at all. Dresses with an odd little nosegay high upon one shoulder. Full, sheer black net tunics, edged with a heavy band of black velvet. Serge dresses combined with satin in many charming ways. Prices range from $15 to $150—every taste and purse seems provided for.
(Ready-to-Wear, Second Floor.)

—Sunfast draperies come from abroad. Some stores, therefore, won't have them all; those that do may have to charge more. But Rich's direct importations came in before the war was declared, so SUNFAST DRAPERIES are here in great variety, with excellent assortments at every price from 75c to $2.
(Draperies, Third Floor.)

Crackers Land Big End of 1 to 0 Score in First Game With Barons

Dent Gets Decision Over Hardgrove in Slab Duel

Crackers Grab Opener From Barons by Narrow Margin of 1 to 0—Both Pitchers Worked Well—Lone Run Scored on Squeeze

By Elliott Dent

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 1.—The Crackers got the jump on the Barons by taking the first game of the series here Monday, score 1 to 0.

This is the last road series we have to play, and all the boys are extremely anxious to take the series, for the result of these games will have a great bearing on our chances for winning the pennant. Now, that we have taken the first game, we figure that the other two will not be so hard to land.

Monday's game was about the tightest battle we have had all season and when I say we squeezed through by the skin of our teeth, I tell the positive truth for our lone run came as a result of a squeeze play, worked to perfection by Bisland with Kircher on third in the seventh inning. The final score was 1 to 0 and it was a great game to win, especially from our greatest rivals.

Manager Molesworth sent in his best bet, Omar Hardgrove, who is the leading pitcher of the league, and he surely gave me the battle of my life. Each of us allowed three clean hits but the Barons got one more which was a scratch infield tap that took a bad bound to McConnell. Things looked dangerous from the Crackers' point of view in the second, Stewart, first up, walked. McBride forced Stewart at second. On the hit and run, Covington singled to right, sending McBride to third. Covington stole second, but Ellam and Wallace both struck out, each getting their three healthies.

We were never in danger after this, except when Covington tripled with two out, but died on third when Ellam flied out to Kircher.

Our run was scored in the seventh, it being a direct result of a base on balls to comedian Kircher. Kircher drew a pass and went to third on Long's single to left. Kircher crossed the plate when Bisland put on the squeeze sign and bunted one down the path ane line.

Manager Smith is undecided as to his pitcher for today but he talks of using Fillingim or Perryman.

Lookouts Beat Mobile Gulls

MOBILE, Sept. 1.—Chattanooga won the opening game of the series from Mobile Monday afternoon, score 3 to 1. Morgan allowed the locals only three hits and Hogg had given up the same number at the beginning of th eighth, but three successive singles tied the score and a single and two misplayed sacrifice hits, with a sacrifice fly, and another single, gave the visitors two more runs and the game.

'Hurry Up' Yost Ready to Tune Up Michigan

ANN HARBOR, Mich., Sept. 1.—The yarning call for the assembling of the Wolverine warriors has been sounded and the first Yostism for the season of 1914 has been uttered. "We'll meet 'em at the cross roads," declared Fielding H. Yost in speaking of the prospects for a Michigan victory over Harvard.

When the actual practice begins, about the middle of September, there will be twenty-four candidates competing. Eight veterans will be lost. The strength of Craig, Pontius and Allmendinger cannot be counted upon to win glory for Michigan this year. To offset the passing of these, three new men are expected to win their spurs. They are Maulbetsch, Neiman and Splaun. While there are fourteen new candidates, these three stand out prominently as coming stars.

Maulbetsch is touted as one of the fastest halfbacks who ever donned moleskins. He weighs 165 pounds, is built low, has a powerful pair of shoulders and his dashes are characterized by lightning speed. The chief asset which enables Maulbetsch to play prominently as one of the main cogs in a football machine is the peculiar manner in which he runs. It is almost impossible to successfully tackle Maulbetsch. He has a corkscrew style of dashing, and even when tackled squarely has such a sturdy pair of pegs that his assailant is usually carried back several yards.

While the loss of the eight veterans will be keenly felt, Yast has abundant material around which to build a valuable machine. There are ten warriors left who have served under him.

The Wolverines will not lack in coaches this year. Germany Schultz will again handle the line. Douglas will again manage the All Fresh candidates, while Jimmy Craig of last year's team will assist Yost with the backfield. Will likely have command of the scrubs.

Yost thinks he has an even break with the Easterners if his men develop as he plans. Yost believes that with a good solid wall in front he can win this game with a sensational runner in the backfield and a good forward pass and punt artist. He has these men in Maulbetsch and Splaun. He is counting on winning the Harvard game if at all by sending Maulbtsch through the line on split plays and end runs. If Michigan's famous scoring machine is not working, the day will likely go to the Easterners as the Wolverines cannot hope to compete in the kicking line with Harvard.

Browns Want To Rejoin Feds

LOUIS, Sept. 1.—Mordecai Brown, deposed manager of the St. Louis Federals, who refused to pitch for the local team after Fielder Jones was appointed manager, has applied for reinstatement wit hSt. Louis Federals, it was announced by a club official Monday. Brown now is in Chicago, and it is thought he will confer with the St. Louis manager while the team is there.

GIVE GOWDY CREDIT---HE HAS DONE MUCH TOWARD DEVELOPING BOSTON HURLERS

By Hugh S. Fullerton

There never has been a championship baseball club that did not have a brainy catcher. There have been great catchers, and mediocre catchers who were smart, and always, if you study the past of the game, a smart catcher was one of the main causes of victory.

Going further you seldom will find a great pitcher who has not worked with a brainy catcher. For a good catcher with brains and a memory, an instinct for judging what the batters and runners are going to do, can develop pitchers wonderfully.

The Boston Braves are not a violation of these rules. Some players who have worked with Gowdy in the past may laugh—but it is a new and transformer Gowdy who is catching now.

Gowdy was, this early spring, a joke as a catcher. It wasn't because he hadn't the ability or the brain: it was because he never had been taught to catch, did not know the finer tricks of the trade.

Then called him "Feather" because Stallings, in a fit of anger, named him Featherhead and Featherbrain.

But he was learning. Under the teaching of Stallings and Evers, Gowdy suddenly developed into one of the best catchers in the National league.

The improvement of the pitchers of the Braves was coincident with Gowdy's development as a catcher.

In the first forty-six games that Boston played this year only nine were well pitched. In the games since then only four have been badly pitched.

Rudolph perhaps is the most surprising success of the sensational trio of twirlers. He is small. McGraw knew he had ability and discarded him alone on account of size. McGraw wants big men who can pitch often. He miscalculated on the durability of the wiry Rudolph. He swept through eleven straight victories before he fell in a smashfest in which he tried to rescue Tyler.

James is a different type. He has strength, speed and bulk and he can whizz them through. His curve is a terror and he uses it now with more cunning, mixes it better and uses a slow ball.

Tyler is a peculiar case. This fellow has been for several years one of the best left-handers in the business. But he never could find a catcher who satisfied it was because of anger over some blunder of a catcher in most cases. He "fought" his catchers.

Stallings tried to get his brother to catch him. Now he has trained Gowdy so that he catches Tyler even better than he does the others. Tyler thinks him the best catcher in the world—and there you are.

Boston is not as badly off for pitchers as it would seem. Crutcher is one of the most promising youngsters. Hess is a veteran, of course, but when he is right he is unbeatable. I think Stallings could use one reliable experienced veteran pitcher; a fellow steady and wise, to jump in and stop a break if such a thing should come. He evidently realizes this—for he was grabbing for Charlie Smith when O'Day jerked that ancient twirler back to the Cubs to keep Boston from getting him. But even without help Stallings' pitching staff looks better than that of any of his rivals for a finish fight. And don't forget that it has all the confidence of youth.

Auburn Sure of New Gymnasium

Atlanta alumni of Auburn as well as friends of the Alabama institution generally will be pleased to learn that the campaign which has been under way for several months to raise funds for a new gymnasium has been very successful, and that the new building is now assured. Tom Bragg, faculty manager of athletics, who has had this campaign in charge, has just made announcement to that effect. It is likely that work on the new building will start at an early date.

This should be welcome news to Auburn supporters. The boys have been handicapped for some time by the lack of facilities in the way of a gymnasium, and when completed the new structure should prove a great help to Coach Donohue and the others in charge in training Auburn athletes in the future. While specifications for the new building have not been given out, it is likely that it will provide ample quarters for all kinds of indoor work. Colonel T. Bragg, Dick Tichenor, Arthur Redding and a host of other Auburn alumni who have given lots of time to this movement deserve the hearty thanks of all Auburn men.

The St. Louis Feds are bitter over being criticised harshly; their objection is well taken—one should not criticise what one has not seen—and the turnstiles indicate no one has seen them play.

Albany Trims Savannah Team

First Game of Post-Season Series for Sally League Flag Goes to Babies, 1 to 0

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 1.—A single to center by Prough with two down in the first half of the ninth inning scored Hanna from second with the first and only run of the opening game of the post-season series between Savannah and Albany for the 1914 championship of the South Atlantic league, played here Monday before approximately 1,200 people.

The game was a pitchers' battle between Williams, a spitballer, and Smallwood, with the shade in favor of the former. Hanna opened the ninth inning with a single to center. Manush sacrificed and Wells flied out to right. Hanna being held at second. Prough singled through the infield to center and Hanna scored easily.

Snappy fielding featured on both sides. The losers got but three men to second and one to third.

Either Perryman or Fillingim Expected to Do Hurling for Locals—Stallings' Braves Are Bunch of Cast-Offs From Other Teams

By Innis Brown

Stopped the Barons, by heck!

What's more, we get another chance at them today. If Monday's dose can be repeated, business will pick up considerably. Another game snagged from the Barons will shove the Crackers up to within some thirty points of Mobile's crew, with enough games left between the two to make the going as tight as ever. A new shoe, when the two teams engage each other for the final series of the season here in a little less than two weeks.

Manager Smith will doubtless use Fillingim or Perryman in today's game. Either may be able to baffle the Barons, and then again, either may prove rather easy. Fillingim has hardly had enough chance to show his wares with the Crackers to tell whether or not he will prove depbendable against the leaders. If Perryman is right, the Barons are up against a stiff proposition. But if the latter is not right we'll get in behind him, and force him to begin steaming them over swiftly, his finishing will be in sight, as soon as they do. In other words if Perry is going right, the Crackers will win today's game, but if the Barons once get him on the run, nothing but heroic relief measures quickly administered will have the rout from being completed.

The secret of the Boston Braves great winning spurt has at last been solved. It is simple enough when your attention is called to it. You know that the legend of the cast-off is proverbial in baseball. Any old time a club cuts loose a ball player, and he grabs on with another team in the same league, he waxs jubilant ovr th prospect of getting a chance, to put the screws to his old mates, and he generally does so, at the first, second, third, and each succeeding opportunity.

Well, that's the solution. The Braves have it on practically every team in the National league in this respect. With the sole exception of the Pittsburg Pirates, the Braves carry some one man who has been service with every other team in the league. There are three will be camping on familiar ground. If the Braves can mutually win out over all opposition and cop the flag, these three will certainly have the laugh on a half dozen other managers in the league. Imagine just what line of talk Josh Devore, Dick Rudolph and Hank Gowdy would pass out to Johnny McGraw, how Cather and Whited would drive Miller Huggins the kidding Uncle Wilbert Robinson, and with what genuine pleasure and delight Johnny Evers would take to passing the funny stuff to Hank O'Day, Charlie Murphy and other members of the Cub forces.

Directum Sets World's Record

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Directum I, the chestnut stallion owned by James Butler, New York City, was the sensation of the opening day's program at the Grand Circuit races here Monday by establishing two new world's records and equalling the pacing race record of two minutes established by William at Grand Rapids earlier this season.

In winning the free-for-all pace valued at $5,000 Directum I stepped the last two of three heats in two minutes flat, beating Frank Bogash in each and breaking the record of 2:00 1-2 established by Star Pointer at Springfield, Ill., in 1897. The average time of the winner gives him the world's new record for more than one heat.

Lella Patchen won the final race, the 2:13 pace, after five heats. No horse won more than two heats, but because of the Syracuse conditions, the race terminated at the end of five heats.

DIANA DILLPICKLES IN "RAH! NO LONGER A WAGE SLAVE' — A 4-REEL "SCREECHER" FILM

THE SPORTLIGHT
BY GRANTLAND RICE

FAMOUS JINXES OF THE GIANTSES

(After and cutting the gate with F. P. A.)

These are the saddest of possible words,
Rudolph and Tyler and James;
Trio of bear cats and wonders and birds,
Rudolph and Tyler and James;
Mowing 'em down in the East and the West,
There with the stuff at the ultimate test,
Shooting the pill like a Krupp at its best,
Rudolph and Tyler and James.

If any one slips them a huzza or cheer,
Rudolph and Tyler and James;
Like Brookes, I am there with a plug in my ear,
Ready to censor their names.
Can't somebody send them to lead an advance
And perhaps get impaled on an Austrian lance
For England or Russia or Belgium or France?
Rudolph and Tyler and James.

THAT 1908 FINISH.

It has been a matter of six years since Sept. mber arrived with a general battle for the flag still under way. Back in 1908 Giants, Cubs and Pirates tore up the highway and the conflict ran overtime into October before it was finally settled in a post-season clash.

That campaign was a nectarine full of juice, but even that rakish finish may be beaten this last month with four clubs in the hunt. In 1909 the Pirates romped in under wraps. 1911 and the 1910 the Cubs cantered home with no one close. In 1911 Giants, Cubs, Pirates and Phillies are all tangled up until late August, when three of them broke and left the stretch to Giants and Cubs, with the Cubs well back. In 1912 it was a cakewalk for the Giants after August, and as big a pipe last year.

A NEW ERA ON DECK.

But 1914 introduces some of the missing pep at last. The spectacle of half the field still battling away, with September on deck, is a new era, and one that is appreciated in all polite baseball circles. And the rare and gaudy spectacle of St. Louis and Boston up there whaling away at their old conquerors, Giants and Cubs, undoubtedly gives 1914 the medal.

In this last dash the edge rests with Giants and Braves. They have finished their tours now into the land of the departing sun. In the main, they battle behind home intrenchments. Cubs and Cardinals must fight their way through the East again, where the Cards have done fairly well, but where the Cubs have suffered frightful losses at every start to date. The Cards stand a much better chance than the Cubs, who are beyond the outlying pale of any dope ever compiled by pen or pencil.

Just when you figure them out of it, they whirl around and raise the deuce. And, when you figure they have a tidy chance, they proceed to detonate with a loud rumbling roar that sounds like the bombardment of a French fort.

BRAVES HALTED BRIEFLY.

While the amazing rush of the Braves was sharply checked in the west, this club is almost sure to hit a fast clip back home with the incense of the fragrant bean drifting into the nostrils of its athletes. Wide margins have meant but little in this weird race. The Braves cut down a six-game deficit in about eight days, where, under ordinary conditions, a six-game lead should last a month at least, even with the leader wavering.

This 1914 affair is no ordinary occasion to dope out. Far from it. It's the most intricate proposition that has been offered since 1908, when Cleveland, St. Louis, Detroit and Chicago all had a chance up to the finish, and one run carried the test of 154 games. An extra run in the last week might have given the pennant to any one of three clubs. And when you begin to dope out a finish where 154 combats are crowded into one lone tally, the doping is beyond any twist of the human bean.

TRAILERS WILL FIGURE.

Pittsburg, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Cincinnati are also sure to furnish a lot of trouble and vexation to the four leaders this next month. They are out of it, with nothing at stake. They can go into battle with the strain lifted, which will give them a big advantage over clubs all frazzled out with the wear and tear of combat and the dream of extra kale if things break gently. It's a good bit easier to make good when it doesn't count—when you can go in without a quiver against a contender who has everything at stake. It is largely on this account that the second division clubs upset the leaders so often in the closing stretches of the race.

HARRY STEINFELDT FIRST OF FAMOUS CUBS TO PASS

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON

Steiny is dead.

The first of the famous Chicago Cubs is gone and every one of that magnificent crowd of men who whirled through the National league to many pennants will drop a tear. There was no more beloved member of the team.

It was Steinfeldt who completed the team and made pennants a possibility. It was Steinfeldt who, steady, reliable, always in the game, carried them through those fierce campaigns. It was when Steinfeldt was let out that the old machine commenced to miss fire and its fires flattened. Three times he was selected as the all-American third baseman and many experts have picked him as the third baseman of the greatest team of all time. On average, at least, he deserved the honor.

Steiny was not great in the sence that Jera Denny, Jimmy Collins or Billy Nash was great. He was a different type, solid, strong, rather slow, but possessed of a wonderful throwing arm that enabled him to block down balls and throw out runners.

He came up from Texas, made his first big league fame at Detroit, went to Cincinnati, where he had the usual troubles and finally Chance forced President Murphy to get him. Murphy made three trips to Cincinnati and each time returned to dissuade Chance and relate awful tales he had heard of Steinfeldt, but finally he surrendered, made a trade and got Steinfeldt. The day Steiny reported to the Cubs Frank Chance said to me.

"Let's have a drink. We'll win the pennant sure now." And he did.

Steiny was good natured, obliging, friendly to all and a wonderful romancer. All one had to do was to say something about Texas, and Steiny was off for the remainder of the evening with tales that would make Harold McGrath seem an amateur. One I never shall forget.

"The gamest guy that ever played ball," Steiny remarked, "was a fellow who played second base for Dallas when I was down there. One day Dallas was playing Fort Worth and, in the second inning the Fort Worth center fielder tried to steal. He was thrown out a block, but took a flying leap and lit on the second baseman's foot with his spikes. He limped around a few minutes, said he was all right and went on playing.

"In that game he had six put outs, nine assists and no errors, was in three double plays, made three hits, one of them a triple, and was all over the field. After the game he and I were walking out to the clubhouse and he said: 'I believe there's something in my shoe' and stooping down he took off his shoe and shook out two toes."

There never was an ounce of harm in Steiny. He was always for the weakest. I saw him with tears rolling down his cheeks one day as he listened to a hard luck yarn and he was not ashamed to weep when one of the players was released.

It was his discharge from the Cubs that broke Steiny's heart and led to the breakdown that resulted in his death.

Racquet Stars Play for Title

Maurice E. McLoughlin Will Meet R. Norris Williams for Championship

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 1.—Maurice E. McLoughlin, of San Francisco, and R. Norris Williams II, of Philadelphia, Monday won their places in the finals of the all-comers tournament for the national singles tennis championship. The betting Monday night was four to one that McLoughlin would capture the title today for the third time. Williams was his opponent last year.

McLoughlin won his place in the finals by defeating former Champion William J. Clothier, of Philadelphia, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2. Williams came through with a similar victory over Ellis Fottrell, of San Francisco, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.

In the afternoon Miss Carrey, of Newport, and R. Lindley Murray, of San Francisco, won the invitation mixed doubles tournament, defeating Miss Fenns, of Boston, and G. L. Wrenn, Jr., of New York, 6-1, 6-4.

Yougottagivetto Heine Zim, he was willing to give or take eighty-five pounds and fight Maranville.

Gentlemen, gentlemen, before you start pulling for the Cards to win, imagine riding back and forth from St. Louis to Philadelphia four times.

Southern Golfers Make Good Showing at Ekwanok

BY GRANTLAND RICE.

MANCHESTER, Vt., Sept. 1.—The four southern entries in the golfing championship of America slid through nobly in Monday's preliminary qualifying round, with Nelson Whitney leading the quartet. Whitney had a fine 77, and many figure that he has a good chance so far, as his game is picking up day by day. This is the first time on record four southern golfers ever qualified even in the first test, but Whitney, Jacoby, Kampan and Stewart all came through.

The first day's battle failed to furnish any additional line on the outcome. Jerry Travers played steadily, but not brilliantly. He doesn't believe in going out after a medal round in a match play tournament, as he would rather save up his energy for the grinding test later on. But he is playing better at each start and will be as hard to beat as ever when the showdown comes.

Chick Evans had a fine 74. His game was not particularly brilliant, but was steady as a clock. Chick is driving wonderfully well and his iron play is miracle work. Here's an example of his control of a pitch shot. At the 18th hole, he had a four for a 74; the 18th is a hard four-hole at best, but Monday a gale was blowing into the face of the player. Chick was 20 yards short on his second shot. He had an easy pitch and run or an easier chip shot. But he elected to play a mashie niblick, although no bunker was in the way, and the ball flew 40 feet into the air, and dropped dead within two feet of the cup. Evans' test will come later, when he has to handle the putter in match play, for the greens here are faster and keener than they have ever been.

Ouimet showed again that he will be a hard man to handle by going around in 73, when he might have been a 69 with any luck in his 10-foot putts, several of which hit or trimmed the cup. Ouimet is playing with fine confidence, and several stiff wagers have been laid that he beats Travers or Evans if they meet.

The big stuff will not develop until Wednesday, when the 36-hole matches begin. Then there will be enough fur around the course to establish a furrier in business for life, as this tournament is a battle for blood all the way. However, no one is anxious to draw Walter J. Travis in the 18-hole match Tuesday afternoon. The old man had a 83 Monday, but this doesn't mean that he won't be around 73 all day Tuesday. And over the 18-hole route he will be the toughest entry of them all to handle. He was eight strokes off his game Monday, but is feeling fit this morning and says he feels confident of getting back into the low 70s.

The two holes here that are causing the greatest amount of dread are the 7th and 16th. Both are reeking with trouble. One cost Travers a 7 and a 6 and three others best Kirkby a 8 and a 6. We can appreciate the poignancy of these two hell pits, for with a par 5 and a par 4 on these two holes we would have had a 79 in place of an 86. On either hole one bad shot means almost sure disaster, and as both were played in a driving wind, one bad shot required no genius to be accomplished.

Coppedge Wins Shooting Match

SEAGIRT, N. J., Sept. 1.—Corporal James F. Coppedge, of the United States Marine corps, was the star performer in Monday's shooting in the Seagirt tournament.

Corporal Coppedge won first place in the Roe match with a score of 96. N. A. Lee, of the navy, was second with a 96 that was not so good, and E. L. Mullahy, marine corps, was third with 95.

In the Meany match at 600 yards, Coppedge tied for first place with W. E. Reynolds, unattached, with a score of 49. Private A. B. Leavitt, New York, was third with 49 also, and Claude H. Clyde, marine corps, fourth; W. A. Worse, 49.

The individual division championship was won by Captain K. K. V. Casey, Pennsylvania, with 262. Major Winfield S. Price, of New Jersey, was second with a 262 that was not so good. Corporal Coppedge was third with 261.

Our idea of a forehanded man is the manager of a boxer who left us a dispatch saying his boxer and another had fought a six-round draw before they left town to fight it.

Joe Jackson turned down the Fed league offer; probably he got Joe Birmingham to read the offer to him.

PERSONAL

THE OLD NOTION that stylish millinery must necessarily be expensive is all foolish. It has been expensive for one of two reasons: Either the shop was in a high rent district or situated in an out of the way spot and did such little business that it had to keep prices up to exist. I have changed all that. I sell exclusive millinery at a price you can afford as I am out of the high rent district and I am selling lots of hats because I let you take them home with you, wear them and then pay a little each week. Miller's Millinery Shop, 97 Marietta st.

APARTMENTS

THE FRASER APARTMENTS, on Seventh st., just off Peachtree, have just been listed with us. For attractiveness, quality and elegance, this building has few equals. These apartments must be seen to be appreciated. See them at once. They are six rooms and the price is $70.00.

THE LAMBRIGHT, on Boulevard, two blocks east of Ponce de Leon avenue, will be completed by September 15. These apartments are three and four rooms and are of a type that is so much in demand. They have every modern convenience and the location is ideal. We have already leased more than half the apartments for October 1 occupancy. Prices $37.50 to $45.00.

OF THE 18 apartments in the Babbage, now being completed at Fifteenth street and La Fayette drive, we have leased all but three 5-room apartments, one on each floor. For location and equipment they are unexcelled. Prices $65.00.

IN THE WERNER, 49 Washington stret, we have a few vacancies in 3 and 4-room apartments. These are up to date, within two blocks of the retail district and the rent is reasonable. Prices $32.50 to $47.50.

IN THE ROBERT, corner West Peachtree and Peachtree place, we have one apartment of six rooms. This building is fireproof and the apartments contain everything to be desired. Prices $70 and $75.

IN THE HELENE, corner Cain and Courtland, we have four apartments of 5 and 6 rooms each with sleeping porch to each. The apartments have everything that goes with a first-class apartment house, and you will have to admit that the location is of the very best in the city. The service is unexcelled. These are the nicest apartments with sleeping porches in the city. Prices from $60.00 to $65.00, includes janitor service, hot and cold water and heat.

55 WEST ALEXANDER ST.—Here we have three dandy apartments without steam heat, and if you are looking for something so as to save car fare and also a first-class little apartment, let us show you the above; they are new and you can move in at any time. Prices $27.50 each.

FOR SALE—REAL ESTATE

DESIRABLE BUILDING LOTS

BETWEEN Stewart avenue and West End, on Brookline, Elbert and Catherine streets, we have a few splendid lots, 50x200 feet in size. These lots have plenty of shade trees and all possible conveniences, with just enough building restrictions to protect the home. In this residential park is a new city school, city park, and it is convenient to two car lines, being only fifteen minutes' ride from town. The terms on this property can be made to suit the purchaser. Price, $900 to $1,500.

OPPOSITE PIEDMONT PARK

BETWEEN Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, on Piedmont avenue, we offer a number of lots, 67x200 feet each, ranging in price from $115 to $150 per foot. These lots are the only available ones in this section suitable for high-class homes. This property has plenty of shade trees, faces east and beautiful Piedmont park—Atlanta's most valuable park. This park gives a permanent outlook, and should make this property doubly valuable for homes. This fact will be appreciated when you take a look at the average crowded residence street. There is no property anywhere in Atlanta that is quite as desirable for apartment houses as this. The price on these lots will range from about $7,500 to $10,000.

SUBURBAN LOTS

AT THE intersection of East Lake drive and the South Decatur car line we offer a few pretty building lots, about 70x190 feet in size. Price, $900. This property has water, sewer and the sidewalks. Reasonable terms.

EAST LAKE

CHOICE bungalow sites on Fair street, just off East Lake drive, in oak grove; lots 100x300, for $1,500. Easy terms.

Status of Connally Skyscraper – August Building Ahead, Year Less Than One Per Cent Behind – Briarcliff Road, Penn Avenue, Pine Place and Willard Avenue Sales, Warehouse Property Brings $15,613 at Court House

Replying to rumors that work on the Connally skyscraper at Whitehall and Alabama streets would be abandoned until after the war scare had subsided, Thomas W. Connally said that this was untrue, and that work would proceed.

The bids were being received Tuesday, he said. There are ten bids on the job.

Mr. Connally said that it had not been determined yet how high the building would go. That, he said, would depend on what the bids disclosed. It is probable that a definite announcement will be made within a few days.

AUGUST BUILDING GAIN.

The building comparison, including Monday's figures, shows a gain of 7 per cent for the month of August, as compared with August last year, and a loss of 7-10ths of 1 per cent for the year.

It is hard to account for this gain in the face of some pessimistic talk heard around town. The increase has been steady now for the past two weeks. Tuesday started off with a value of a little over $6,000, in which were included some small dwellings and one alteration job.

As the year's deficit is only $27,000, there is a strong probability that it will be eliminated in a very short time. August finished with a gain of $23,000.

SMALL SALES.

Mrs. Ida A. Turner has sold to the Strauss-Epstein company a vacant lot on the west side of the Briarcliff road, 62.9x127.2, the lot being 122.8 north of Greenwood avenue, for a consideration of $6,300.

John S. Scott has sold for the Peters Land company to H. H. Johnson a vacant lot on the east side of Penn avenue, between Fifth and Sixth streets, 50x150, for a consideration of $3,250.

SALES RECORDED.

George H. Holliday, Jr., sold to E. R. Adams a parcel, 108x121, at the southeast corner of Pine place and Butler alley. The consideration was not disclosed in the transfer of the bond.

Mrs. Susie C. Fuller sold to Joseph H. Latimer, Jr., a parcel on the east side of Willard avenue, 60x163, for $5,250.

WAREHOUSE BRINGS $15,613.

Forrest & George Adair on Tuesday sold at the court house a warehouse property at the corner of Oakland avenue and the Georgia railroad for a consideration of $15,613. The equity was sold for cash subject to incumbrances and accrued interest. C. P. Murphy was the buyer.

The property consists of a brick warehouse on a lot of irregular dimension and about an acre in size.

There were several other sales at the court house, but they were mainly of small parcels, the warehouse property being the most important one offered.

ARK. MINERS SENT TO JAIL FOR CONTEMPT

(By Associated Press.)

FORT SMITH, Ark., Sept 1.—Seven miners, including Peter R. Stewart, former president of the district union, United Mine Workers of America, were found guilty of contempt of court by Judge Youmans in the federal court here today and sentenced to serve from thirty days to four months in jail.

Stewart recently resigned the presidency of the district union. He received a four-months sentence. The district is composed of Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

The men were charged with being implicated in the riots which occurred in the coal fields near here several months ago, after the operators had obtained an injunction to prevent their interference with the operation of the mines.

AUSTRIANS TURN TIDE; MARCHING TOWARD LUBIN

Defeat Ten Divisions Russian Troops, Taking 2,000 as Prisoners

(By Associated Press.)

MANCHESTER, Mass., Sept. 1.—Dr. K. T. Dumba, the Austro-Hungarian ambassador to the United States, today made public the following dispatch received by him from Count Berchtold, the Austro-Hungarian minister of foreign affairs at Vienna, which was transmitted by wireless. The message is dated August 30, and says:

"On its left western wing the Austrian army, following up the victory of Krashik, defeated, on August 27, Russian troops numbering about ten divisions. It took prisoner one general, one colonel, forty-three officers and 2,000 men, and captured also large quantities of war material. The army is now advancing toward Lublin, in Russian-Poland.

"Several skirmishes have taken place in eastern Galicia, on the Austrian center.

"The Austrian troops have taken a firm stand against hostile force ssuperior to theirs numerically, and the Austrian artillery has shown splendid marksmanship.

"The last special train for Rotetrdam with 300 Americans on board has left Vienna. Henry S. Breckinridge, assistant secretary of war, and several other American officials were present when the train departed. Cordial speeches were exchanged and there was cheering for the American nation."

Austrians' Aim Is to Separate Russian Army

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Aug. 88.—(Via Copenhagen and London.) Sept. 1.—The following account of Austrian operations has been obtained in Berlin from an official Austrian source:

"In the Austro-Russian theater of war decisive battles have been in progress for several days. Our forces which were victorious nea Krasnik pursued the Russians in the direction of Lublin. The Austrians advanced also into the enemy's territory between the rivers Bug and Wieprz, and we have taken positions in front of Zemoso.

"Other contingents of the Austrian army hold their positions northeast and southwest of Lemberg. After crossing the Dniester, they encountered great forces of the enemy.

"Emphasis is placed on the word 'decisive' in this official report.

"The Austro-Russian battle front stretches for a distance of 700 kilometers (425 miles.

A correspondent of the Berlin Tageblatt at the Austrian headquarters, telegraphing under date of August 28 regarding the events subsequent to the defeat of the Russians at Krasnik says the Austrian army advanced in the direction of Lublin with the object of making impossible the reunion of the Russian army of the Vistula with its right wing. This is the principal Russian army opposing the Austrians.

Port of Queenstown Is Reopened to Americans

LONDON, Sept. 1.—As a result of representations by the American embassy, the port of Queenstown has been reopened to Americans in Ireland who desire to embark there for the United States.

French Liner Leaves Havre Bearing 800 Americans

(By Associated Press.)

HAVRE, Sept. 1.—(Via Paris, Aug. 31.)—The French line steamer Rochambeau left on August 30, repatriating 800 Americans. Few complaints were heard from the passengers regarding the "glorified steerage." Those who were compelled to take quarters in the steerage have the same privileges as other passengers.

Americans coming from Switzerland have interesting accounts of the situation there. Edwin Beach, of New York, said:

"Great praise must be given to the American consul general, David F. Wilber, and his staff, for untiring efforts in behalf of Americans needing help at Zurich."

Mrs. F. E. Bradley, of New Haven, said the trip from Geneva had been most tedious.

"We did not mind it," she said. "We were so glad to get away. The greatest feeling of unrest prevails throughout Switzerland. When we arrived at Lyons we found many trains bearing Americans and Englishment. All sang their national anthems and as a climax a man standing on top of a packing box waved the French flag and sang the Marseillaise. All joined in the chorus and the scene altogether was a most impressive one."

SUCCESSOR TO LATE POPE HAS NOT BEEN NAMED

Conclave Hall, Where Cardinals Are in Session, Still Closed

(By Associated Press.)

ROME, Sept. 1.—The doors of the conclave hall, behind which the colege of cardinals gathered last night to elect a successor to the late Pope Pius, were stil closed this morning.

Owing to persistent rain there were few people this morning in the square outside of St. Peters. The streets in this vicinity are patrolled by police and detachments of troops are kept in readiness for any disorders, but there is no thought that they will be required to exercise their authority.

ADAMSON NOMINATED FOR CONGRESS FROM FOURTH

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

LAGRANGE, Ga., Sept. 1.—Pursuant to the call of the Fourth congressional Democratic executive committee, the Fourth congressional convention met at Warm Springs Saturday for the purpose of nominating a congressman and transacting such other business as might come before the body assembled. Hon. E. T. Moon presided and Mr. S. H. Dunson acted as secretary.

Hon. W. J. Williams from Carroll county in a very eloquent and forceful speech placed the nomination of his fellow townsman and present congressman, Hon. W. C. Adamson. Mr. Adamson was declared the choice of the convention as congressman from the Fourth district by rising vote. A letter from the congressman addresseed to the convention, in which he expressed his deep regret of not being able to attend and outlining his reasons, was read.

The following were named as the new executive committee to serve for the next two years: Carroll, W. J. Millicon; Chattahoochee, C. N. Howard, Jr.; Coweta, T. G. Farmer, Jr.; Harris, R. L. Baldwin; Heard, Patrick C. Whitaker; Marion, T. B. Rainey; Meriwether, B. R Freeman; Muscogee; S. B. Baldwin; Talbot, P. M. Weston; Troup, Frank Harwell.

PROFIT-TAKING CAUSED THE DECLINE IN WHEAT

Wheat Closed 7-8 to 1 1-4c Down—Corn, Oats, Pork and Lard Off—Sides Steady

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Wheat rallied today after an early break, due to sales by speculators who believed that an upturn of 23c in the last few weeks was enough for the present. The decline, however, brought out a number of buying orders. The opening, which ranged from ½@1¾c lower, was followed by a swing well above last night's level.

Renewed weakness in wheat came about as a result of profit-taking and because of buying force having waned. Indiana and Ohio millers sent word that farmers were selling wheat freely. The close was unsettled, ⅞ to 1¼c net lower.

Corn swayed with wheat. There was not much business. After a start that was ⅛@½c down, prices went somewhat higher than the previous close.

Subsequently liberal receipts of corn and the improved crop outlook formed a weight on the market. The close was nervous, ⅛ to ½c under last night.

Continuance of export demand put strength into oats. Big deliveries in the September option counted against the bulls at first, but the effect was not of a lasting sort.

Provisions sagged notwithstanding an advance in the hog market. September deliveries were heavy and tended to stave off buyers.

REMARKS.

Summary of weather and crop conditions in the cotton belt for the week ending August 31, 1914:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 1.—In the eastern part of the cotton belt the weather was favorable; picking progressed satisfactorily; the late crop is fruiting well. In the central section the crop made satisfactory progress in Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee, but too much rain in Louisiana and Mississippi interfered with picking and caused some deterioration. In the western section conditions are satisfactory in Oklahoma and improvement was noted in the southern half of Texas, but over most of the northern half of Texas conditions were unfavorable on account of too much rain and cloudy weather. Considerable complaint of shedding and damage by insects continues to come from many portions of the belt. Truck crops in the south continue in favorable condition, but rain is now needed for citrus fruits and truck in eastern and southern Florida.—MARVIN.

C. F. Von HERRMANN,
Section Director, Weather Bureau.

Weather Conditions

Forecast Till 7 P. M. Wednesday

Atlanta and vicinity: Fair tonight and Wednesday.

Georgia and Alabama: Generally fair tonight and Wednesday.

The area of high atmospheric pressure remains central oer the southeastern part of the country, with generally fair weather except that light showers fell at stations along the Gulf coast and Alabama. Temperature rose about 6 degrees in the section east of the Mississippi river.

The northern disturbance extends as a trough of low pressure from Kansas southeastward over the Lakes, and is accompanied by cloudy, rainy weather in the Lake region and northwest. A moderate area of high pressure, with cooler weather, follows this low area, the temprature having fallen as much as 16 degrees at Rapid City and Huron. The lowest at 7 a. m. temperature was 34 degrees at Calgary, within the United States 42 degrees at Havre and Helena.

Conditions are favorable for another fair, warm day at Atlanta.

WEEKLY WEATHER REPORT

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Harvesting of the south's bumper cotton crop is progressing satisfactorily in most sections, while favorable weather is bettering the condition of the standing crop, according to the weekly weather bureau review today. The review says:

"In the cotton belt favorable weather prevailed over most eastern districts, the bolls are opening rapidly and picking and ginning are progressing satisfactorily. In the central states of the belt rainy weather interfered with picking and caused further damage from shedding and otherwise, and insect pests appear to be increasing.

"In the western districts too much rain in northern Texas caused some deterioration, and damage by weevil is increasing. In southern Texas dry weather was favorable and the crop is doing well, as also in Oklahoma, where good rains assure sufficient moisture to mature the crop.

"In the trucking region of the south all late crops appear to be making satisfactory progress except in Florida, where dry weather prevails and rain is much needed, especially in the citrus fruit region."

SOUTH'S CONSUMPTION OF COTTON INCREASES

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 1.—For the first time in history, the south has consumed more than three million bales of cotton in one year, according to figures made public by H. G. Hester, secretary of the New Orleans cotton exchange. The total for the twelve months ending August 31 amounted to 3,037,308 bales. It was pointed out in Secretary Hester's report that the consumption of the south rapidly was approaching that of England.

The commercial crop was the second largest on record, amounting to 14,588,501 bales. The largest crop was two years ago, totaling 16,138,426 bales.

FEAR OF RAID BY ZEPPELINS CLAMPS LID ON ANTWERP

Restaurants Closed at Nigiht, but Amercan Minister Tells German Commander He Must Not Cut Off Food

ANTWERP, Sept. 1.—In view of the recent bombardment from the air by German Zeppelins it is a wonder that the inhabitants of Antwerp are not paralyzed with fear.

At 8 o'clock the street cars cease running, every light is extinguished and every shop and restaurant is closed. At 10 o'clock all windows must be dark.

As President Wilson has cabled Minister Brand Whitlock to use his own judgment, he will probably remain in Brussels for the present, as the foreign colony there needs his protection. Secretary of Legation Hugh Gibson will endeavor to keep in touch with Antwerp by automobile, though passing through the lines is now exceedingly dangerous.

Minister Whitlock was very dignified and firm throughout his dealings with the captors of Brusels. Instead of calling on the German commander, Whitlock sent Secretary Gibson to demand assurances that the food supply of the inhabitants would not be cut off. The German general replied that he could give no answer until he had communicated with his imperial master.

Gibson demanded "yes" or "no," and would accpt no evasions. He told the German commander that the American government would hold him personally responsible for any ill treatment of the inhabitants.

At 7 o'clock the next morning the general rang the doorbell of the American legation and assured Minister Whitlock that his wishes would be complied with.

FOOD IS SCARCE.

As the German forces have ravaged the surrounding country like swarms of locusts, food in Brussels is becoming very scarce.

Besides a dozen American correspondents shut up in the city, there are about fifty tourists who wish to leave. They might as well try to leave the South Sea Islands without a boat. Will Irwin, the American writer, is ill in a Brussels hotel with tonsilitis.

This war is verifying once more the axiom about the prophet. The machine gun that is playing such havoc is the invention of Colonel Isaac Newton Lewis, United States army, retired, who repeatedly offered it to his own country and at last in despair of its receiving recognition sold it to France, Germany and Belgium.

The Lewis gun, air-cooled, pours out a stream of lead at the rate of 1,000 bullets a minute. In the battle near Malines it literally mowed down trees. These guns are carried in some instances by the soldiers and are also drawn by the Belgian draft dogs, which have shown wonderful sagacity and courage in battle.

American-made automobiles also are rendering splendid service. The Belgian army automobile commandant tells me that the American machines stand the hardest usage and are nearer foolproof than the European makes.

USE ARMORED AUTOS.

The Belgians are making most effective use of armored automobiles protected by steel shields and armed with the Lewis guns. The guns are so light—ony twenty-nine pounds or less than half the weight of a soldier's equipment—that a powerful armament can be carried in a comparatively light car. These armored automobiles are being driven by racing drivers and by reckless young society men.

Recently I saw one of these armored autos, with the lean muzzle of a machine gun peeping from its elephant-gray turret, tear down the road at fifty miles an hour spitting a murderous spray of lead as it bore down on the advancing Germans.

When within a few hundred yards of the German line the car slacked its speed and stopped. Its gasoline was exhausted. Instantly one of the crew refilled the tank under the heavy fire of the oncoming Germans. No driver in a Vanderbilt cup race ever did it quicker.

Then, to our horror, the car refused to back. The car was big and the narrow road was bordered by deep ditches, but by some miracle the driver succeeded in turning around. Though shrapnel was bursting all about him, he was as cool as though he were turning a limousine on Riverside drive.

As the car straightened out for its retreat the Belgians gave the Germans a jeering salute with their siren and a parting blast of lead as the machine went racing back toward Antwerp

PENSACOLA AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK CLOSES

(By Associated Press.)

PENSACOLA, Fla., Sept. 1.—The American National bank, of Pensacola, closed its doors today, after a run lasting about an hour. Aroused by sensational reports circulated late yesterday and last night depositors flocked to the bank this morning. For some time after the doors were closed streets in front of the bank's ten-story building were crowded. Officials of the bank could not be communicated with up until noon.

The bank had deposits of $1,715,000, according to the last annual statement. The capitalization is $300,000 and the surplus $35,000. On last January 1 its loans and discounts amounted to $2,000,000. C. W. Lamar is president of the institution and M. E. Clark cashier. The American National successfully weathered a severe storm a few months ago when the First National bank closed its doors.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Arrangements are being made to put a temporary receiver in charge of the American National bank of Pensacola. A brief report to the comptroller of the currency says the bank was closed by its directors but gives no details.

TACOMA PACKING CO. PLANT IS DESTROYED

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 1.—The main plant of the Carstens Packing company was destroyed by fire today, entailing a loss estimated at $700,000 to $1,000,000.

NEW COMET SEEN FROM OBSERVATORY AT PLEVNA

LONDON, Sept. 1.—A Reuter Telegram company dispatch from Sofia says that a new comet has been observed with the naked eye from the observatory at Plevna. It was located in the constellation of Gemini.

BEER AND SOFT DRINKS WILL BEAR SPECIAL TAX

Doubling of Levy on Beer Will Net Government $65,000,000 Alone

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—House ways and means committeemen today continued work on the proposed special internal revenue bill to meet customs duty losses caused by war in Europe. They hope to have it ready for submission immediately after the president addresses congress on the subject later this week. The committeemen contemplate imposing a special tax on soft drinks, beer and patent medicines and it has been suggested that a levy of 5 or 10 per cent be placed on railway tickets and tickets of admission to theaters, ball parks and other licensed amusement places. More than $50,000,000, it was estimated, could be raised by the ticket tax, while a doubling of the levy on beer would bring in $65,000,000 more.

Senate Democrats are to take up the emergency in a caucus.

FARMERS DESIRE LOANS OF FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

"Credit Is All Right, but What We Need Is Cash," Says Member of Union

(By Associated Press.)

FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 1.—Arguments for the lending of money by the federal government direct to the farmers of the country were made here today at the opening of the national convention of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America.

"They can talk all they want to about credit, but what we need is cash," said L. M. Rhodes, of Huntington, Tenn., chairman of the national board of directors, and president of the Tennessee union. His statement was greeted with prolonged cheering.

Mr. Rhodes was responding to a welcome extended the delegates by W. D. Lewis, president of the Texas union, on behalf of that body.

"There is plenty of money in the national treasury in 'reserve funds.' We are going to have that money in this crisis or vacate the capital at Washington," continued Mr. Rhodes.

Similar sentiments were expressed by J. H. Davis, recently nominated congressman-at-large from Texas, who was another of the speakers at the morning session.

Business session will be executive.

Old City Hall in Louvain Was Left Intact by Germans

LONDON, Sept. 1.—An Oxford undergraduate who escaped from the German lines has arrived in London, after a trip through Louvain and Brussels. He says the Hotel De Ville, the beautiful fifteenth century structure, had not been set on fire or damaged by the Germans. In fact, they took precautions to preserve it and the officers said it was their intention to save the building.

The cathedral, however, he says, was not allowed to go scot-free, as all the windows were knocked in. The fabric was still intact when he left, but was filled with refugees.

ESCAPED CONVICT IS CAPTURED IN IOWA

Jack James Fled From Convict Camp at Forsyth, Ga., Last June

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

FULTON, Mo., Sept. 1.—The numerous aliases of Jack James, a convict, who escaped from the convict camp at Forsyth, Ga., did not keep him out of the clutches of Missouri officers, who captured him in Iowa. James also was known as Will Bowman and W. P. DeBoard and has a long prison record.

He was arrested at Malvern, Iowa, near the Missouri state line, by Sheriff Wallace, of Maryville. James escaped last June from Forsyth and since that time the authorities have been on the lookout for him. He was trailed over several states before his capture at Malvern.

James has a six-year term to serve in the Forsyth prison on his conviction of a charge of robbery and bigamy. He admitted he had escaped and said he was willing to return.

SEA ISLAND COTTON GETS 21 CENTS IN VALDOSTA

Receipts Higher There Than They Have Been in Many Years

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

VALDOSTA, Ga., Sept. 1.—While calamity howlers are abounding in other sections of the state, Valdosta is making a new record as a market for sea island cotton. The receipts to date are approximately one-third more than this time last year, and the prices are still holding up to those of 1913.

Through last week the receipts were higher this year than in many years. On Saturday 140 bales were received in Valdosta as against fifty-three last year. Prices are better today than they were last year. The present prices range from 21 to 19 cents against 20 to 18 last year.

Short cotton prices continue poor, but long cotton (sea island) shows no danger of a decrease at present.

Death of W. C. McCall

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

QUITMAN, Ga., Sept. 1.—News has been received here of the death of W. C. McCall, a former Quitman citizen who has been living in Miami the past five or six years. Mr. McCall was a brother of Judge J. G. McCall of Quitman, and both of them were veterans of the war between the states, serving with distinguished gallantry. Almost the day the war closed W. C. McCall received his commission as lieutenant colonel of the Fiftieth Georgia. The colonel of his regiment related many stories here of his absolute lack of fear on the battlefield.

At the close of the war Mr. McCall studied law and afterward practiced in Camilla and Quitman. Some years ago he went to Florida. At the time of his death he was commander of the United Confederate Veterans at Miami. He never married.

MALINES NOT SERIOUSLY DAMAGED BY GERMANS

Reports of Disastrous Effect of Bombardment Were Greatly Exaggerated

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The Chronicle's Antwerp correspondent who has just visited Malines says:

The recent reports of the disastrous effect of the German bombardment of that city were greatly exaggerated. It is true that about eighty houses were destroyed but the tower of the cathedral of St. Rombaut and other famous landmarks are undamaged.

The cellars and underground passages still are filled with refuge although the bombardment ceased long ago.

A dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company from Amsterdam says the Brussels correspondent of the Algemeen Handelsblad gives the following description of the situation in Brussels:

The German garrison in Brussels now numbers not over 10,000 men. Batteries of field guns and rapid firers guard the streets and German sentinels are posted at all the public buildings. The Duke of Brunswick, the German governor of Belgium, has taken possession of the royal palace at Lakken.

The German aeroplanes and Zeppelins are making their headquarters at the fling grounds of Berchem Stagathe. Monday a German Zeppelin while flying above Iachen caught fire and fell to the ground killing the pilot.

The scarcity of food is beginning to be felt.

The military authorities have taken possession of one of the newspaper printing plants, where it is now publishing an official paper.

Bombs Dropped in Paris Causes Very Little Excitement

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 1.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company from Paris states that when the bomb fell in the Forte St. Martin quarter from a German aeroplane the people in the vicinity, believing it due to an explosion of gas, rushed from all sides. The fire brigade arrived promptly as did the mayor, the commissary of police and representatives of the French aviation service. As a matter of fact Parisians show no disposition to be unduly disturbed by these bomb incidents, which are generally regarded as a rather harmless effort on the part of German aviators to create a panic.

British Want All Their Jam and Will Not Let Any More Be Exported

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—War on the continent and mobilization in England will not be allowed to affect the British breakfast.

Ambassador Page at London reported to the state department today that exportations of jam and marmalade, an essential part of the British breakfast, had been forbidden by the English authorities.

PRESIDENT STARTS BACK TO WASHINGTON TODAY

Chief Executive Will Reach Capital Wednesday From Summer White House

(By Associated Press.)

CORNISH, N. H., Sept. 1.—President Wilson planned to leave for Washington today, bringing his short vacation to a close. He is due to arrive at the capital at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

The president went to Hanover this morning for another game of golf. The day was clear and Mr. Wilson was in fine spirits. Dr. Grayson will return to Washington with the president, but other members of the party, Prof. Stockton Axson, Mrs. F. B. Sayre, Miss Margaret Wilson, Mrs. Horne and Mrs. Cothran, will remain at the summer White House for a time.

INTERESTING CONTESTS IN IDAHO PRIMARY

(By Associated Press.)

BOISE, Idaho, Sept. 1.—Idaho voters today are naming the tickets of the Democratic, Republican, Progressive and Socialist parties for the fall election.

The primary brings to a close a lively campaign for both the Republican and Democratic nominations for United States senator. The Republican candidates are Senator James H. Brady, who is seeking re-election; former Governor Frank R. Gooding, Congressman Burton L. French and James F. Ailshie, former chief justice of the Idaho supreme court. The candidates for the Democratic nomination are former Governor James H. Hawley, John F. Nugent and E. W. Whitcomb.

FARMERS OPEN ANNUAL MEETING IN FORT WORTH

Problem of Marketing Crops Is Uppermost in Minds of the Delegates

(By Associated Press.)

FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 1.—Delegates from practically every state in the union have arrived here to attend the national convention of the Farmers' Educational and Co-opeartive Union of America, which convened today. Charles S. Barrett, of Union City, Ga., national president, will preside over the meeting.

At the forenoon session Mayor R. F. Milam, of Fort Worth, welcomed the delegates. The response was made by A. V. Swift, of Baker City, Ore., national vice president.

Following the usual custom no formal program was prepared for the convention. The question uppermost in the minds of the delegates, it was stated, was the problem of marketing crops which the European war has imposed on American farmers.

NEW HAMPSHIRE VOTERS PICK SENATE CANDIDATES

Aspirants for This Office Will Be Nominated First Time by Direct Vote

(By Associated Press.)

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 1.—A moderately heavy Democratic and Republican vote was expected at the statewide primaries today. The Progressive candidates for the highest offices were unopposed.

This is the first time voters of New Hampshire have nominated candidates for United States senator by direct vote. Seantor Jacob H. Gallinger, Republican, is unopposed for renomination. For the Democratic nomination there is a three-cornered contest by Congressmen Raymond B. Stevens, of Landaff; Mayor William H. Barry, of Nashua, and Calvin Page, of Portsmouth.

MOTHER SEEKS NEWS OF HER MISSING SON

Mrs. F. H. Hicks, 402 Flat Shoals avenue, told The Journal Tuesdayw that her fifteen-year-old son, Adolcshun Hicks, had gone away from home Friday and has not been seen since. She thinks he has run away to Macon; she said he was talking for some time of running away.

He is five feet three inches tall, weighs about 135 pounds, has brown eyes and black hair. If any one knows where he is, they are requested to notify his mother.

FREE MARKETS OPENED IN WAR ON HIGH PRICES

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Four experimental free markets with accommodations for 500 push carts or stands and 112 farm wagons were thrown open to the public in New York earl ytoday. The success or failure of this plan to reduce the high cost of food, according to its promoters, depends on the spirit of the purchasing public.

GERMANY PUT BAN ON PUBLISHING DEATH LIST

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 1—The Mail says that the German military authorities have forbidden the publication of further casualty lists in the newspapers. The local newspapers, however, are allowed to publish casualties of purely local interest. Only twelve complete lists have been published and these concern only the fighting which occurred before the large engagements.

A. L. Dalton Dies

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

SUMMERVILLE, Ga., Sept. 1.—A. L. Dalton died at his country home about one mile south of Summerville this morning at 10 o'clock. Mr. Dalton was about 57 years old and had been a resident of this county many years. He was at one time a member of the board of roads and revenues. He leaves a wife, three daughters, Mrs. McL[illegible]an, of Menlo, Mrs. Ennis, of Milledgeville, and Mrs. Sentell of Bridgeport, Ala., and two grandchildren, Evelyn and Eugene Henry

TWO FIRES IN TWELVE HOURS STARTLE EASTMAN

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

EASTMAN, Ga., Sept. 1.—Fire destroyed the home of L. M. Woodward, Sr., here Tuesday morning at 3 o'clock. The origin of the fire is not known, but half the house was in flames before it was discovered. Only about $10 worth of furniture and goods was saved. The house was completely destroyed. $1,500 worth of insurance was carried which only half covered the damage. This was the second fire inside of twelve hours. The first did small damage at the Harrell Bottling works.

art Pottle, of Albany; A. H. Ulm, secretary and campaign manager for Governor Slaton; Pat Gambrell, of Macon; A. A. Lawrence, of Savannah, and others.

As Senator West appeared in the center of the stage, Judge Newt Morris, of Marietta, rose in the center aisle and gave three cheers for Senator Hoke Smith in which the delegates and spectators enthusiastically joined him.

Senator West, after some little delay, called the convention to order, and Rev. W. N. Ainsworth, pastor Mulberry Street Methodist church of Macon, led in prayer.

Senator West urged the delegates to keep the best order possible, and appointed Joseph S. Davis, U. S. Marshal for the southern district of Georgia, sergeant-at-arms.

With half a dozen men on their feet, Senator West first recognized H. H. Dean, of Gainesville, who nominated Judge Robert Pottle for temporary chairman.

Dupont Guerry, of Macon, was next recognized and nominated W. F. Jenkins, of Putnam county for temporary chairman.

The nomination was greeted with thunderous and prolonged applause. When it subsided, Colonel Joseph E. Pottle, of Milledgeville, a brother of Judge Robert Pottle, seconded Mr. Jenkins' nomination "with supreme delight." J. E. Sheppard of Sumter county also seconded the nomination.

There was no second to Judge Pottle's nomination.

A resolution was presented naming Levi Reeves of Bartow and J. B. Jackson of Jones, assitant secretaries and the resolution was adopted.

Senator West, in commencing the vote for temporary chairman, stated that the delegates would vote in accordance with their instructions.

Colonel Joseph Pottle, of Milledgeville, was on his feet in an instant declaring that no county committee had the right to instruct the delegates on this point.

Senator West disclaimed any intention of trying to direct the voting. He said he was simply in the chair for a few minutes, until a temporary chairman could be elected.

Dupont Guerry was on his feet in the middle aisle.

"Then if you are not the chairman," he shouted, "don't try to tell this convention how to vote," and there was another thunder of applause.

J. E. Sheppard, of Sumter county, got the floor in the confusion and stated to the convention in stentorian tones that he was authorized to state for Senator Hoke Smith that the senator was deeply concerned in the election of Mr. Jenkins as temporary chairman and Mr. Reagan as permanent chairman.

This statement brought forth still more applause, and Senator West had the utmost difficulty in getting the roll call started.

D. F. McClatchy, reading clerk of the Georgia house of representatives, and one of the assistant secretaries then attempted to call the roll.

G. R. Hutcheon, one of the short term senatorial candidates stood up on a chair and interrupted. He started a speech and when he got as far as "I want to protest against Hoke—" the convention broke forth into an outburst of disapproval. Mr. Hutcheon climbed upon the stage and demanded of Chairman West that he be recognized under personal privilege for the purpose of protesting against the name of Senator Hoke Smith being brought into this convention.

For several minutes the delegates kept up such an incessant noise that Mr. Hutcheon could not be heard.

Not until Colonel Joseph E. Pottle jumped upon the stage and asked a quiet and attentive hearing for Mr. Hutcheon did the delegates permit Mr. Hutcheon to proceed.

CONVENTION IN UPROAR.

He began by saying, "We are all fellow Democrats. I yield to nobody in my loyalty to the Democratic party."

Mr. Hutcheon then, announcing that he was coming to his point of personal privilege, began a reference to the "purity of the dew drop" and heard "morning glories," when he was interrupted with jeers and urged to "Cut out the dew drops and morning glories." There were cries of "Put him out," and the convention was in an uproar.

After order had been partially restored Mr. Hutcheon said: "Senator Smith has sent word to this convention, whether it is to hear it or not."

Pandemonium broke out afresh, and there were cries of "Put him out," "Let Hoke hose if he wants to," etc.

Dupont Guerry, the floor leader of Mr. Felder, climbed upon the stage and added his request to that of Colonel Joseph Pottle, the floor leader of Mr. Hardwick, that the convention hear Mr. Hutcheon out. But the disorder would not cease. There was as much, if not more noise in the gallery, as on the floor. Finally Senator West had the announcement made that unless there was order in the gallery, the police would clear every spectator. This had the desired effect, so far as the gallery was concerned, and Mr. Hutcheon resumed.

He said: "This is a Democratic and not an autocratic gathering. We should observe the will of the people as expressed at the ballot box.

"It is an insult to the Democracy of this state for a man to sit in some room and by sending messages here attempt to dictate the actions of this convention. The suggestion from Senator Hoke Smith is an affront to the sense, decency, manhood, character and honor of this convention."

At this point Mr. Hutchens was again howled down and the wildest disorder prevailed for several minutes. There were constant shouts of "Put him out."

THREATENS TO ADJOURN.

D. F. McClatchey, raising his hand and getting attention, announced that Senator West, unless order was restored at once, he would adjourn the convention until 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

"You can't do it. We dare you to try it," was shouted at Senator West from the audience.

Mr. Hutchens resuming for the sixth or seventh time, said:

"I didn't start this row."

The audience shouted:

"Well, stop it, then."

Dupont Guerry then made the point of order that Mr. Huthcens was not a delegate and therefore had no right on the floor.

Mr. Hutchens snapped out, "Well, he had the audacity to send a message here."

Mr. Guerry shot back:

"And you have the impudence to come here and interrupt this convention."

Rev. Mr. Ainsworth was then accorded the privilege of the floor. He raised his hands, requesting the audience to stand and then prayed fervently and impassionately that calm and quiet be restored.

HUTCHENS FINISHES.

When Mr. Hutchens resumed after the prayer, the convention heard him.

"I have no intention to give offense to any man," he said. "If you will let me finish, I will be through in a moment. Senator Smith has no contest here. Therefore I question the good taste and the democracy of a message such as he has sent to this convention. (Howls of derision mingled with hisses for quiet.) I don't care if it costs me every vote I have in this convention, I here and now record my protest against such autocracy."

And having thus said what he was trying to say, Mr. Huthcens left the stage.

Quiet prevailed at once and the roll call started for temporary chairman.

SLATON MEN CHALLENGES.

Appling county, the first on the list went for Jenkins. When Bulloch was reached, and the spokesman for one of the contesting delegations announced four votes for Jenkins', H. H. Dean the floor leader for Slaton, entered a challenge on the ground that the county went for Slaton. He entered a challenge on the same ground when Clatoosa split its vote, giving one to Pottle and one for Jenkins.

Coffee county split its two votes between Pottle and Jenkins, and C. E. Stewart, of the delegation, protested on the ground as he expressed it, that the county went for "Hoke Smith, Hardwick, Harris and all the Democrats."

When Gilmer county was reached the spokesmen of the two contesting delegations had a lively scramble for the floor. A. H. Burtz voted his delegation as being the one duly accredited. He demanded a ruling from the chair, but was howled down and the chair did not rule.

At the roll call of Hall county Mr. Dean a delegate therefrom, announced four votes for Pottle. W. B. Sloan, a member of the delegation, interrupted to record his vote for Jenkins, declaring Mr. Dean had no right to vote him. The vote was therefore recorded three for Pottle and one for Jenkins.

At 11:25 the rollcall was finished. The result was announced as follows:

Jenkins 246; Pottle 184.

SENATOR WEST IS THANKED.

While the clerks were casting up the result, Judge Newt Morris, of Cobb county, as a Hardwick supporter and delegate, moved a vote of thanks to Senator West for the fair manner in which he conducted the rollcall. Dupont Guerry as floor leader for Felder and Harris, seconded the motion.

D. F. McClatchey put the motion and it carried by a rousing vote of acclamation.

When the result was announced, Hinton Booth, of Bulloch, which cast its vote for Pottle, moved that the result be made unanimous. H. H. Dean, of Gainesville, seconded the motion, and further moved that the chair appoint a committee to escort Mr. Jenkins to the chair.

Senator West named on this committee Judge Robert Pottle and Colonel Joseph Pottle, the two brothers, the former being the rival candidate of Mr. Jenkins. This happy choice was received with applause and the three mounted the stage with their faces wreathed in smiles.

PRAISES MR. WILSON.

Mr. Jenkins in accepting the temporary chairmanship thanked the convention for the honor conferred upon him. He spoke briefly on the policies and principles of the Democratic party and paid his tribute to President Wilson who he said is the peer of any statesman in the world and is being so recognized both in this country and abroad as one of the world's greatest statesmen and most able diplomats.

Touching on the governorship Mr. Jenkins said:

"We have nothing but admiration for all the gentlemen who contested for governor and we are espetially glad to honor that old war horse, wise counsel and great Judge Nat E. Harris of Bibb."

The convention cheered and applauded.

"We are glad today to honor, also," Mr. Jenkins resumed, "the ablest man in the United States senate, Hon. Hoke Smith."

Here the convention broke into deafening applause.

On motion of Colonel Joseph Pottle, Senator West was tendered a seat on the rostrum.

Proceeding with business, Chairman Jenkins asked for nominations for temporary secretary.

MASSENGALE IS SECRETARY.

Aldine Chambers of the Fulton delegation nominated St. Elmo Massengale of the Fulton delegation who managed Judge Harris' campaign for governor in his county. Herbert Clay of Cobb county and Dupont Guerry of Bibb seconded the nomination. There was no other nomination and Mr. Massengale's election was made unanimous. He accepted the election in a brief and appropriate speech.

Mr. F. McClatchey, of Cobb county, was elected assistant secretary.

CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE.

A resolution was presented and adopted, directing Chairman Jenkins to appoint a credentials committee of one member from each congressional district.

The following were appointed:

First District—E. A. Cohen, of Chatham.

Second District—C. B. Scott, Decatur.

Third District—C. W. Oliver, of Quitman.

Fourth District—John Johnson, of Troup.

Fifth District—Aldine Chambers, of Fulton.

Sixth District—J. B. Jackson, of Jones.

Seventh District—N. A. Morris, of Cobb.

Eighth District—J. G. Wright, of Wilkes.

Ninth District—W. B. Rice, of Jackson.

Tenth District—D. G. Fogarty, of Richmond.

Eleventh District—J. P. Knight, of Berrien.

Twelfth District—N. M. Patton, of Wilcox.

Chairman Jenkins named the following committee to formulate the rules for the convention: W. A. Harris, of Bibb; Q. L. Williford, Morgan; James C. Duncan, Houston; T. S. Howes, Decatur; J. W. Bennett, Warrenton.

After these committees were appointed the convention adjourned until 2 p. m. in order to give the committee time to meet and prepare their reports.

BY HARLEE BRANCH.

MACON, Ga., Sept. 1.—Before going into the state Democratic convention, which met at 10 o'clock this morning in the city auditorium, each of the three leading candidates for the short term senatorial term and their close advisers expressed themselves as confident concerning the outcome.

Great enthusiasm prevailed at the headquarters of Congressman Thomas W. Hardwick. Both he and his friends declared that the fight was won and that Mr. Hardwick was certain of nomination. Mr. Hardwick's managers openly asserted their belief that he would win on the second or third ballot.

Thomas S. Felder and his friends continue to insist that his chances of election were excellent. They figured that in the event neither Congressman Hardwick nor Governor John M. Slaton received enough votes to elect in the earlier balloting a sufficient number of votes would be diverted from these candidates to Mr. Felder to insure his nomination.

Governor Slaton and his supporters expressed themselves as quite satisfied with the situation. They said that things appeared in better shape than on Monday and that while they expected several ballots would be required to nominate the new senator, Governor Slaton would ultimately land the nomination.

HARDWICK STAYS FAVORITE.

The betting this morning continued to favor Congressman Hardwick. Even money was being offered in large amounts that he would be the nominee and two and three to one odds were offered that neither Governor Slaton nor Mr. Felder would be successful.

No claims are being put forth by G. R. Hutchens, the fourth candidate in the race. It is understood that Mr. Hutchens does not pretend to be able to direct his delegates after he releases them. In fact, many of them are expected to vote for one or the other candidates after the first ballot, regardless of whether they are released.

Governor Slaton's friends were flirting with the Hutchens supporters all day Monday and they resumed their overtures Tuesday morning before the convention met. Just what success they had is not known, but it is understood that they received little, if any, encouragement.

Caucuses of the Hardwick, Felder and Slaton delegates were held Monday night. Each of these candidates addressed his delegates. The Hardwick caucus was a particularly enthusiastic one, the congressman's supporters were jubilant and the meeting was characterized by thorough optimism.

Mr. Felder, in his address to his delegates, urged them to stand by him, declaring that if they did he would without a doubt turn out to be the winner. He said that some of the politicians had been circulating reports to the effect that he would trade with one or the other of the candidates and these reports were absolutely without foundation.

"I am a candidate for senator and nothing can tempt me to make a trade. I expect to fight to the last ditch and urge my delegates to stand with me to the end."

Governor Slaton made a similar appeal to his delegates. He urged them not to desert him and said he had every reason to believe that he would be nominated if his delegates would stick. Before his caucus was adjourned the governor had circulated among his delegates slips upon which were printed pledges of unwavering support to the end. The delegates were invited to sign these pledges and some of them did.

RULES OF PROCEDURE.

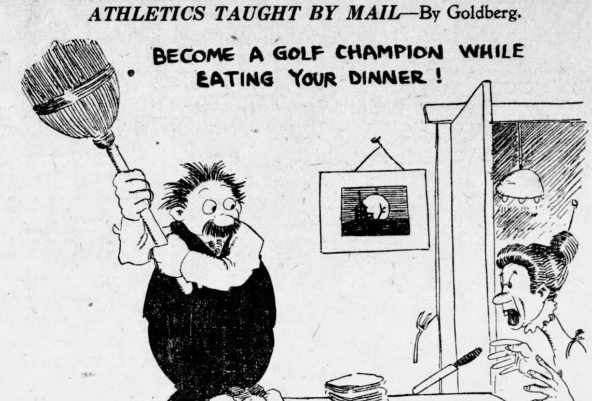

The rules committee this afternoon formulated the rules for the state Democratic convention. The committee's report, which was submitted soon after the convention met for the afternoon session provided as follows:

"First, the appointment of a committee of twelve to be known as the committee on resolutions, the appointment of which shall be made by the permanent chairman of this convention. All resolutions except such as may be considered as privileged resolutions shall be referred to that committee, which shall report to this convention a platform for consideration.

"Second, introduction of resolutions, platforms or declarations of four from each committee consisting of four from each congressional district in the state.

After these committees were appointed the convention adjourned until 2 p. m. in order to give the committee time to meet and prepare their reports.

DID INNES PUT WOMEN VICTIMS IN MAD HOUSE?

"You Can't Do Me That Way," Accused Man's Wife Is Said to Have Told Him

That Victor E. Innes has had women victims, whom he placed in insane asylums, is the charge against him made by his own wife, who has been jointly indicted with him for the murder of Lois Nelms Dennis and Beatrice Nelms, according to the report of Burns agents to Dan B. Lehon in Atlanta.

The Burns agents in Seattle, Wash., have located at 519 Melrose avenue a Miss Dentzell Moreley, who had her marriage in 1911 to Arthur Harbaugh, step-son of Innes, annulled.

Miss Moreley has made a statement to the Burns agents in which she is represented as telling of clashes between Innes and his wife during the period she lived with them. On one occasion, the young woman says, Innes was quarreling with his wife and said: "Why, I believe you are crazy and a fit subject for the insane asylum."

Mrs. Innes quickly retorted: "Well, you needn't think you can put me in the asylum like you have other women, for I am on to you and you can't do it."

NEW THEORY IN CASE.

This statement has led to the new theory in the case that possibly Innes pretending that one or both of the Nelms girls was insane secured their incarceration in some private asylum in Texas or elsewhere in the west, and the theory has given Mrs. Nelms, who advanced it, renewed hope that one of her daughters may be still alive. She is certain Mrs. Dennis is dead.

Miss Moreley, who lived in the Innes family only a few months, made other interesting statements to the Burns agents, according to their reports. She asserted Innes and his wife frequently quarrelled, usually because the wife accused the husband of paying too much attention to other women. During one quarrel, Miss Moreley is quoted as saying, Innes grabbed his wife by the feet and dragged her down a flight of stairs.

Just before she left Harbaugh, says his one-time wife, one of her diamond rings disappeared from the bureau, and young Harbaugh openly accused his mother of taking his wife's ring.

W. S. Moreley, of Vashon, Wash., father of the girl, is bitter against Innes, according to the Burns reports.

ELOPED WITH HARBAUGH.

According to his story, his daughter eloped with Harbaugh and went to live with his family at Portland. Miss Moreley is heiress to a large estate left her by grandfather.

When she went to live with the Innes family they immediately sought to gain possession of the estate, it is alleged and became bitter toward the girl when they found it was in trust and could not be touched until she is 21 years of age. Then, the girl declares, they commenced to abuse his daughter and within three months she returned home, pale, haggard and ill. Soon after secured an annulment of her marriage because it was contracted when she was only fifteen years of age.

Mrs. Nelms is greatly encouraged by the last report of the Burns agents and believes the detectives will yet be able to develop more evidence directly connecting Innes with the disappearance of her daughters.

LETTER IS SOUGHT.

Mrs. Nelms has renewed her efforts to get possession of the letter addressed to Victor Innes at Birmingham and which is now in the dead letter office in Washington.

The letter was postmarked Atlanta and addressed in a feminine hand. Mrs. Nelms believes it was written to Innes by her daughter Lois shortly before she and her sister disappeared. Burns agents traced the letter to the dead letter office, but have been unable to get possession of it. Mrs. Nelms believes it will aid in the solution of the mystery. Certain it is that one of the few clews in the case, which have not been worked to an end.

Victor Innes and his wife, arrested in Eugene, Oregon, and charged with the murder of the girls, are expected to arrive in Atlanta under guard of the alleged crime, Tuesday afternoon.

CHARGE SEWERS EMPTY INTO LAKEWOOD STREAMS

Complaints that development companies and factories are emptying their sewers into the Lakewood "feeders" are responsible for the inspection made Tuesday morning by Councilman Ashley, chairman of the health and sanitation committee; Chief Jenkins, of the sanitary department, and Chief Plumbing Inspector Beach. By making a thorough inspection of the Lakewood watershed these gentlemen expect to determine if the charges are true.

There is a state law prohibiting the dumping of sewerage into the streams or "feeders" of Lakewood, passed when the lake held the city's water supply. If this law is being violated it is expected legal action will be taken. Factories and real estate promoters in the vicinity deny the charges emphatically, it is said.

GRAND JURY INDICTS ATHENS BANK HEADS

President, Cashier and Bookkeeper of Old Citizens' Bank Accused

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 1.—The following, who were officers of the Citizens' bank some months ago when it was placed in the hands of state banking officials, were indicted yesterday by a Clarke county grand jury:

President W. H. Sheldon, four bills, one forgery and three charging embezzlement; R. W. Woods, cashier, two bills, charging embezzlement; W. H. Weatherly, a bookkeeper, one bill, charging embezzlement. This bank was later reorganized with a new set of officers.

The grand jury also found a true bill against William Burch, who some weeks ago shot and killed his brother.

MAYOR TAKES ANOTHER SHOT AT CREMATORY

Plant Is Proving Daily It Can't Do the Work Claimed for It, He Says

While the Destructor company is in court attempting to prove the city should accept the local crematory, the crematory is daily proving it is unable to do what is claimed for it, according to Mayor Woodward.

The city is delivering to the crematory a little less than its specified 250 tons of garbage daily, the mayor asserts, and yet engineers of the local plant have found it necessary to run practically all day every Sunday for months. Sunday before last and last Sunday, the mayor says, the plant was kept going and in spite of this fact it has never caught up in the consumption of the garbage. Tuesday, he asserts, the plant is almost a full day's work behind, and this with as little as 20 per cent of garbage in the mixture being burned as against 35 per cent it is supposed to contain.
